NEWS SUMMARY.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Fernando Wood has been nominated for Mayor of New York by the Mozart Democracy.

Judge Chase says he is more radical in name than in fact, and that he has indiscreet friends.

It is probable that General Pope will send to Congress a list of rebels fit to be enfranchised, and also that the Alabama Convention will make provision for such persons in the Constitution.

The Superintendent of the Freedmen's Bureau at Winchester has had Judge Parker arrested on the charge that Union men cannot get justice from him.

It is reported that a negro plot, to kill certain white and colored men who voted the Conservative ticket in Virginia, has been discovered near Lynchburg. It is also said that the negroes are debating in Mecklingburg and adjoining counties whether to seize the lands on the first of January, if they are not given them.

Clinton Rice, of New York, is preparing a report, under the direction of Chief Justice Chase, to be submitted to Congress, showing the operations of the bankrupt law. This is in accordance with the tenth section of the act itself, which requires reports to be made by the Chief Justice from time to time. Circular letters have been addressed to the various United States District Judges, asking for such information as they possess relative to the operations of the law. They are also requested to suggest any amendments that experience has shown the law needs.

Ulrich and Harreg, the American counterfeiters confined in jail at Toronto awaiting extradition, have escaped.

The friends of the late ex Gov. Andrew are engaged in raising a fund of $100,000 for the benefit of his family. Over $60,000 has already been subscribed.

Weston started from Rochester, N. Y., at twenty minutes past eleven o'clock yesterday morning for Buffalo. The roads were in bad condition, but he expressed his intention to be in Buffalo (ninety-six miles distant) at three o'clock this morning. He indignantly denies that he is in league with those who bet he will not make one hundred miles in twenty-four hours.

Mrs. Lena Miller, the German woman who poisoned her husband last winter, was hanged at Brookville, Pa., yesterday. She made a full confession.

The Niantic Thread Mills at Fall River, Mass., owned by E. M. Swail, of New York, and J. M. Davis, of Fall River, were burned yesterday. Loss $40,000. Eighty persons are thrown out of employment.

Senecal & Meigs, of Montreal, largely engaged in the lumber trade with the United States, have failed. Their liabilities are estimated at $400,000.

There was quite a flurry of snow at Buffalo, yesterday morning.

A fire last night totally consumed the plaining mill of Ladd & Miller, situated in the rear of the Everett House, St. Louis, and badly damaged two or three small adjoining buildings. Ladd & Miller's loss on stock and machinery was $22,000; insured for $14,000. Three or four rooms in the Everett House were badly burned, and a large portion of the house damaged with water. The loss on furniture, &c., is estimated at about $20,000; insured for $12,000. The loss on buildings is not ascertained, but fully insured.

The United States Circuit Court, which has been in session at Savannah, taking evidence in the case of Blodgett vs. the United States, adjourned yesterday.

GOLD DISCOVERY.

Rich Vein of Quartz Found in Mercer County.

A YIELD OF $5,000 TO THE TON.

The Vein One Hundred Feet Below the Coal Level.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.
WEST MIDDLESEX, MERCER CO., PENNA., November 13, 1867.

The workmen employed by Colonel James Hemphill, in sinking a shaft for ore or coal, struck a vein of rock, strongly intermixed with a substance at first supposed to be sulphur. Upon the examination of the rock by Colonel Hemphill and his superintendent, Mr. Mills, and after severe tests, they pronounce it to be gold of superior quality, and capable of yielding five thousand dollars to the ton. The rock is about the same as that in which the Greene county gold is said to have been found, and lies about one hundred feet below the coal level in this basin. H. J.

NEW LISBON, OHIO.

Bank Entered by Burglars—Six Thousand Dollars Stolen.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.
HANOVER, O., November 13, 1867.

On last Friday night some burglars entered the bank of Lodge, Zippernick & Co., of New Lisbon, O., and entered the vault, from which they took about six thousand dollars. The money did not belong to the bank, but to private parties, who had it there on deposit. The losers are not as able to bear it as are the bankers themselves. The burglars are supposed to be the same who blew open the safe in Columbiana, ten miles distant, the night before. There is no clue to them. McQ.

FROM STEUBENVILLE.

Proceedings of Jefferson County Sabbath School Convention—The McCoy Trial Commenced.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.
STEUBENVILLE, November 11, 1867.

The Jefferson County Sabbath School Convention met in the Hamlin M. E. Church this morning, at ten o'clock, and was called to order by the President, Rev. Thomas N. Boyle. The exercises commenced by singing the hymn,

"All hail the power of Jesus name."

Rev. T. M. Hudson then addressed the Throne of Grace, after which the convention joined in singing,

"I will sing for Jesus."

Rev. J. G. Reaser, of Leavenworth, Kansas, then led in prayer. The Chairman then came forward and remarked that it was not for the few to consume the time of the Convention, but for the many, and that all were invited to participate, and hoped that every one present would take occasion to present their views some time during the session. At the request of Rev. D. R. Campbell, the Constitution and By-laws of the Association were read. On motion of a delegate, the following hours were designated for the holding of the different sessions of the Convention—9 A. M., 2 P. M., and 7 P. M. A committee of two on enrollment was then appointed, consisting of Messrs. D. E. Harvey and F. S. Fry. M. O. Junkin, L. Boriand and J. H. Lindsay, Esqs., were appointed a committee on entertainment. Rev. J. B. Dickey is to deliver the opening address this evening at 7 o'clock.

A Financial Committee of two was appointed. Question: "How can we secure the attendance of Scholars at Church?" was discussed by Revs. Ogle, Southmayd, Hudson, Hingely, Boyle, and Messrs. Sheward, Junkin, and others. Several beautiful hymns were sung during the afternoon. The hour of adjournment having arrived the doxology was sung and the Convention was dismissed by Rev. Southmayd, with the benediction. The Convention adjourned to meet this evening at 7 o'clock.

W. B. Lindsey, Esq., Treasurer of the Association, made his report, which showed that the amount received by him was $80 62; amount expended $44, leaving a balance on hand of $36 62. From the report of the Secretary I gather the following statistics of the number of pupils in the schools of the county: Whole number of pupils, 1,024; average attendance, 874; over twenty-one years of age, 57; number of officers and teachers, 186; average attendance, 130; conversions, 60; number of volumes in library, 3,548.

It was resolved that the first business of the afternoon session should be the discussion of the question: "How can we secure the attendance of Sabbath School Scholars at Church?" And that Rev. W. R. Vincent should open the discussion. It was also resolved that all questions coming before the convention should be referred to a committee of two.

Revs. Ogle and Campbell were appointed said committee. The hour of adjournment having arrived, the convention joined in singing the Doxology, and were dismissed with the benediction.

At the afternoon session, on motion of D. E. Hervey, Esq., the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this Convention sympathize with Rev. G. W. Baker, of Richmond, O., in the severe affliction which he and his wife met with in coming to this city this morning to attend the Convention.

(Rev. Baker was on his way to the city in a two-horse carriage, accompanied by his wife, when some two miles from the city the horses took fright and ran off, tearing the buggy all to pieces, and it is thought fatally injured Mrs. Baker. Mr. Baker was very severely injured himself. A report was current on the streets to-night that Mrs. Baker had died, but I could not trace it to any reliable source.)

THE M'COY TRIAL.

A great deal of interest is taken in the trial of McCoy. The Court room was crowded all day, every spot being taken up by those who desired to get a glimpse of the supposed murderer. McCoy looks as though he stood his incarceration well, is robust and hearty, and does not appear to fully realize the fearful situation in which he is placed. He converses freely, and he would be the last man you would take for a murderer. The entire day was taken up in empanelling a jury, and at half-past four yesterday afternoon seventy-six persons had been called, and out of that number nine jurors had been selected and sworn. Nine out of every ten had formed an opinion, which consequently disqualified them from acting as jurors, and in fact many are excused because they have formed an opinion from articles read in the newspapers.

McCoy is defended by Thomas M. Marshall, of Pittsburgh; Trainor & Taggart, Walden & Wright, and Col. George W. McCook, of this city, and Messrs. Gibson & Judson, of Washington, Pa., while the State is ably represented by J. F. Daton, Esq., the Prosecuting Attorney, assisted by Messrs. McCausland & Oweney, of this city. Sheriff Moore started for the country this evening for the purpose of subpoening some thirty more jurors. R. S. P.

Rumored Default of Colonel Forney Untrue.

The Impeachment Inquiry.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.
WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13, 1867.

Col. Forney's Stewardship.

The rumors circulating for a day or two past relative to an alleged defalcation in the accounts of John W. Forney, as Secretary of the Senate, have led to an examination of his accounts with the Treasury Department as disbursing officer, and it has been ascertained that there is a balance of over $50,000 on hand to his credit, which indicates that there is no truth in the rumors. As Secretary of the Senate he acts as paymaster to the Senators, draws their pay and disburses the money for this and for contingent expenses, but it does not appear that any of the Senators have allowed him to retain the custody of their cash for any length of time, or that there are irregularities in his accounts which warrant any suspicion of dishonesty.

Collector Appointed.

The President to-day appointed Edward T. Wood, a war Democrat, Collector of the Third Brooklyn District, vice Callicot, suspended for alleged malfeasance.

Senator Guthrie.

Senator Guthrie, of Kentucky, is expected to take his seat this session. His friends are getting winter quarters for him. He wrote last winter to a Senator that he never expected to be able to return to Washington.

Grant and the Presidency.

J. M. Morphis, editor of a paper in Texas, this morning called at the War Department, and had an interview with General Grant. During the conversation Mr. Morphis said to the General that the people in his section were determined to support him for President, and he hoped he would be elected. General Grant immediately turned the conversation to another subject. Morphis again brought up the subject of the Presidency, and said: "General, we want to run you for President, and I want to know what I can say when I return home." Gen. Grant replied, "Say nothing, sir; I want nothing said."

Virginia Affairs.

Gen. Schofield arrived to-night from Richmond to confer with Gen. Grant and the President about affairs in Virginia.

Col. Belger's Case.

It seems to be conceded that Col. James Belger, whose dismissal by Secretary Stanton was revoked by President Johnson, holds no place in the army, until a vacancy occurs or Congress makes some special legislation in his case.

The Impeachment Case.

The House Judiciary Committee was in session at the Capitol, and the printed evidence upon impeachment was submitted and considered. Only five members were present Messrs. Wilson, Boutwell, Frank Thomas, Marshall and Edwards. Four members were absent. They were in session about four hours, examining and comparing the testimony, and will continue their session daily until Congress meets, when they will submit their report.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

It is understood that Hon. Edmund Cooper, formerly member of Congress from Tennessee, but latterly one of the President's private Secretaries, will succeed Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Want Commissioner Rollins Removed.

An extensive combination of the whisky rings of New York and other parts of the country, has been formed to effect the removal of Mr. Rollins, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and a powerful lobby is here operating with the President to bring it about.

WASHINGTON, November 13, 1867.

ANOTHER RETRENCHMENT ORDER FROM GEN. GRANT.

Gen. Grant has issued a series of regulations prohibiting the employment of civilians in any branch of the military service where soldiers can be detailed without injury to the service. General Grant has also issued a general order containing thirteen regulations, arranged with a view to the more economical administration of affairs in the army, and a more uniform and systematic method of letting contracts for supplies or services required. The order concludes thus: "The Secretary of War ad interim desires to impress upon all branches of the military service the necessity of greater economy in public expenditures, and of curtailment in every department of service of the present expenses wherever requirements of service will permit such reduction."

THE DAVIS TRIAL.

Wm. M. Evarts, R. H. Dane and General Wells, counsel for the prosecution, and District Attorney Chandler, of Eastern Virginia, had a consultation of several hours to-day with Attorney General Stanbery, with regard to the course to be pursued on the trial of Jeff. Davis. All these gentlemen are ready to proceed with the case on the 25th.

SECRETARY WELLES STILL ILL.

NASHVILLE.

State Teachers' Association—Suicide

NASHVILLE, November 13.—The State Teachers' Association met at the capitol to-day, and engaged in discussing the propriety of uniting white and colored schools. ARMY OF TENNESSEE.

Meeting of the Society in St. Louis—Speeches by Generals Sherman, Howard, and Others—A Brilliant Gathering—Great Enthusiasm.

ST. LOUIS, November 13.—The annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee was held to-night at Mercantile Library Hall, which was crowded with a brilliant audience. The address of welcome to the members of the society was delivered by Surgeon E. C. Franklin, who gave a rapid sketch of the formation and deeds of the Army of the Tennessee, and tendered to its officers a warm and cordial welcome to St. Louis.

The regular annual address was delivered by General Sherman, who entered into a rather detailed account of the operations of the army while under his command, beginning with Chattanooga, following its course to Savannah, thence through the Carolinas to Washington. He alluded in a rather philosophical vein to the causes of the war, attributing it mainly to the acts of the extreme men North and South, but looked hopefully to the future, and urged every man to do his duty as his judgment prompted. He scouted the idea of another attempt to destroy the nation, and said if such an effort should be made, the next Northern invasion of the South would not merely devastate it, but fructify and regenerate it. There were no direct political allusions made, but he took a calm and conservative view of the present and future condition of the country.

After Gen. Sherman finished, Gen. Howard delivered a beautiful and glowing tribute to the private soldier, portraying his trials and hardships, his enthusiasm and valor, in vivid colors. The hall was beautifully decorated with flags and banners, and the various paraphernalia of war. A tent was erected on the platform, and a section of artillery and stacks of small arms occupied prominent positions.

The audience was very enthusiastic and loudly cheered Generals Sherman and Howard, and the mention of the names of Grant, McPherson, Ord and other prominent participants in the war elicited prolonged applause. The exercises were interspersed with music by the Post Band of Fort Leavenworth, which came here for the occasion, and patriotic songs by Capt. Church and Mr. Anderson. Altogether the entertainment was a brilliant one, and so far the proceedings of the Society have been a decided success.

Among the prominent officers here are Generals Sherman, Howard, Corse, McCook, A. J. Smith, Belknap, McArthur, Giles A. Smith, Fairchilds, Hickenlooper, Strong and Reid. A grand banquet will be given to-morrow night at the Southern Hotel, at which it is expected about four hundred officers will be present.

Transfer of the New Territory.

The Russian Flag Reluctant to Come Down—Its Descent Greeted by a Princess in Tears—The American Flag Ascends Gracefully—It is Saluted by the Fleet—Ill Feeling Between Russians and Americans—Several Duels on Paper—Terrible Hurricane, &c.

NEW ARCHANGEL, October 8, via Swinomish, W. T., November 11.—The formal transfer and delivery of Russian America to the United States Government took place to-day by Captain Pestrechoff, acting commissioner on behalf of the Russian Government, and Maj. Gen. Rousseau. At three P. M. a battalion of United States troops, under command of Maj. Chas. O. Wood, Ninth Infantry, was drawn up in front of the Governor's residence. By half-past three a large concourse assembled, comprising Americans, Russians, Creoles and Indians. At the last named hour the Russian forts and fleet fired salutes in honor of lowering the Russian flag, but the flag would not come down. In lowering it tore its entire width close by the halyards, and floated from the cross-trees, forty feet from the ground. Three Russian sailors attempted to ascend the inch-and-a-half guy-ropes supporting the flag staff, but each failed. A fourth ascended in a boatswain's chair, seized the flag and threw it in a direction directly beneath him, but the motion of the wind carried it off. Five minutes after lowering the Russian flag, the stars and stripes went gracefully up, Mr. George Lovell Rousseau having the honor of flinging the flag to the breeze, the United States steamers Ossipee and Resaca at the same time honoring the event by firing salutes.

As the Russian flag was lowered, Captain Pestrechoff stepped forward and addressed General Rousseau as follows:

"General: As Commissioner of his Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Russia, I now transfer and deliver the territory of Russian America, ceded by His Majesty, to the United States."

General Rousseau, in response, as the American flag ascended, said: "Captain, as Commissioner on behalf of the United States Government, I receive and accept the same accordingly."

The commissioner spoke in a tone of common conversation, and was only heard by Gov. Makesatoff, Gen. Jeff. C. Davis, Capt. Kuskal, and a few others who formed the group. Several ladies witnessed the ceremonies, among them Princess Makesatoff, Mrs. Gen. Davis and Mrs. Major Wood. The Princess wept audibly as the Russian flag went down.

The transfer was conducted in a purely diplomatic and business-like manner. The entire transaction was concluded in a few hours. The Ossipee, with the commissioner on board, steamed into the harbor at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, and at four o'clock in the afternoon a dozen American flags floated over the newly-born American city of Sitka.

NEW ARCHANGEL, November 3.—The Russian commissioners have protested against the occupancy of the Fur Company's buildings by the United States troops. By courtesy the troops are now sheltered and the supplies stored. The matter will be referred to Mr. Seward. Much ill feeling has been exhibited since our occupation of the city. Seven duels on paper have occurred, but were settled without bloodshed. The parties are of high rank.

The United States steamer Ossipee was nearly wrecked on the night of the 27th ult., when forty miles southeast of Archangel, during one of the most terrific hurricanes witnessed on the coast the past seventy years. She lost all her boats and a considerable amount of sails and rigging. Her chronometer was destroyed and all her fires but four put out. Those remaining were kept alive by burning oil, tallow, grease, lard, candles, and like substances. She shipped an immense sea, doing great injury to the powder in the magazine. Forty-six sailors were wounded, but providentially none were killed. Gen. Rousseau and his son George, and also the General's staff, were on board. The hurricane lasted eighteen hours, and the entire storm between thirty-six and forty hours.

Lieutenant Commander Crossevan and the boatswain, named Wm. Green, saved the ship by their heroic exertions in battening the hatchways. When the storm raged with the greatest fury, the engineers and firemen all behaved nobly. The Ossipee put into Sitka harbor on the evening of the 28th ult., having left here on the 26th.

The United States store ship Jamestown and the steamer Resaca are in port, all well. The yellow fever has been thoroughly killed out. The revenue cutter Lincoln has gone to Staken river with the United States surveying party in tow. The chartered vessels Milan and Buena Vista, with government stores for the garrison, have arrived safely.

The hurricane swept over the harbor with terrific force. Fifteen vessels were at anchor in the harbor at the time. Three Russian vessels were driven ashore, and a Sandwich Islands bark badly damaged. Several vessels dragged their anchors and bore down upon each other mercilessly, yet no serious damage was done. The steamship John L. Stevens was in their midst, but received no damage. A number of houses were blown down, but no lives lost.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Death of a State Senator—Meeting of Italians.

SANFRANCISCO, CAL., November 13.—Dr. W. D. Knox, of San Jose, died in this city to-day. He was a hold-over Senator from Santa Clara county, and his death leaves a vacancy to be filled by special election. Knox was a Republican, and should a Democrat be elected the latter party will probably have a majority in the Senate, as two of the Republican members are considered uncertain.

The Italians of this city held a meeting today, and passed resolutions condemning the action of Victor Emanuel and Louis Napoleon. A subscription for the benefit of Garibaldi was opened, and some two thousand dollars collected, to be forwarded to Italy, to United States Minister Marsh, together with a letter thanking him in the name of the Italian population here for the sympathy shown Garibaldi.

ESCAPE FROM THE COUNTY JAIL.

Two Prisoners Break Jail—A Clue as to their Whereabouts Obtained.

Two prisoners confined in the County Jail, succeeded at an early hour yesterday morning in making their escape.

The circumstances it appears were as follows: George Walters and William Johnson, together with three other prisoners, occupied cell No. 31, in the corner of the jail on the second tier. In cell No. 32, adjoining theirs, were three other prisoners, and in No. 33, next to this, was Graves, the Jefferson county murderer.

It was feared that Graves might make an attempt to escape during the night, and Warden White himself kept watch of that portion of the jail until midnight. On retiring he instructed the watchman of the Jail to keep the strictest possible watch on the side of the Jail next Fifth street, and posted him for that purpose in a room in the upper portion of the Court House where he could have an excellent view, and give the alarm in case there should be any attempt at jail breaking.

About half-past three the Warden was awakened and informed that two prisoners had broken out.

On inquiry, it was ascertained that the fugitives were Walters and Johnson from cell 31. The three other prisoners in the cell had refused to accompany them and explained how the escape was effected. The two men had broken the heavy iron side bar off their bedstead, and with it as a battering ram had succeeded in breaking off a large portion of the iron plate surrounding the stone work inside the window. They had then, with their bar, broken away sufficient of the stone to enlarge the narrow window into an opening sufficiently large to permit their bodies to be squeezed through. They had then made a rope of pieces of their blankets, and with one end of this tied to his leg, Johnson had climbed out of the window and passed "hand over hand" along a narrow piece of projecting stonework until he reached the wall surrounding the yard. Walters passed the clothing belonging to them along the rope to Johnson, and then followed him. From the top of the wall they had dropped down outside of the yard, and made off. It would seem that one of them must have been hurt in the descent, as the stone at the bottom is chipped off apparently by being struck heavily by the heel of a boot. No trace of them has been obtained. They prevented their companions from giving the alarm by threatening to kill them.

After they had escaped it was ascertained that they had succeeded in removing the bolts holding the iron plate against the wall between their cell and the next, and had worked a large opening through the wall. This had been done at intervals, the plates being replaced when they were not at work. Through this opening they passed from time to time to play cards with their comrades. The occupants of this next cell were urged to join them in their escape but refused.

Some time ago these two men occupied cell No. 35 and attempted to escape by making an opening in the ceiling, but were discovered.

Walters was committed on the 28th ult., to await trial for the robbery of the Great Western Gun Works, on Wayne street. He is dark complexioned, with dark goatee and mustache.

Johnson is a medium sized man with a smoothly shaved face, and his arms are marked in India ink.

It is regarded as strange that the watchman, who was only a short distance from the cell, did not hear the prisoners, as their escape could not have been conducted without some noise.

The driver of the Washington stage, when coming in yesterday morning about eleven o'clock, passed two men who answered the description of the parties, about fourteen miles from the city, on the Washington Pike.

SECOND EDITION.

4 O'CLOCK, A. M.

PRESIDENTIAL SERENADE.

Demonstration of the Conservatives.

"A. J." MAKES A SPEECH.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.
WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13, 1867.

The Johnson departmental demonstration to-night was an enthusiastic affair. There were about five thousand demonstrators on hand, with good music and a large display of torches and transparencies. The crush and jam in the vicinity of the White House was terrific. The President appeared at about eight o'clock, behind a pair of large spectacles, and mounted the same step on the north front from which he delivered his famous 22d of February speech. Close behind him was Colonel O'Beirne, a federal office holder of the district, who had been appointed spokesman by the multitude. The Colonel addressed four pages of foolscap to His Excellency, and His Excellency replied in four more pages, which he read with occasional emphasis, and an occasional stumble, winding up with "Good night, God bless you," which were the only extemporaneous remarks of the evening. The only distinguished persons in the audience were the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Treasury. The gentlemen were visible at one of the windows. Mr. Stanbery was called for at the conclusion of the President's speech, but did not respond.

THE PROCESSION.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—The Conservative Army and Navy Union having tendered to the President a congratulatory serenade, they invited all Conservatives and Democrats to join them in the demonstration to-night. The procession formed at Headquarters of the Army and Navy Union, composed of delegations and associations, including the Johnson clubs and unions of Washington and Georgetown, and a large number of soldiers and sailors. Various army flags, banners, transparencies, lanterns, torches, &c., were carried in the procession, and during the march there was a continuous display of rockets and other fireworks. There were three bands of music. A broom about four feet long and nearly as long, with a huge handle, was significantly exhibited. It is the same that was presented to President Lincoln, and which was purchased at an auction sale.

SALUTES FIRED.

When the procession arrived at the Executive Mansion, the Presidential salute and a salute of one hundred guns were fired. The dense mass of spectators repeatedly called for and cheered the President. Music was played meanwhile, and fireworks exhibited.

A committee, consisting of Col. Jas. A. Tait, Col. P. H. Allaback and Col. James R. O'Beirne, escorted the President to the front of the Mansion, where he was greeted with repeated cheers. Col. O'Beirne addressed the President as follows:

SPEECH OF COL. O'BEIRNE.

MR. PRESIDENT:—The Conservative Army and Navy Union of the District of Columbia tender you, their honorable chief, the complement of a grand serenade, in congratulation of the newly promised hope for the welfare of our recently hitherto unhappy country. Our Conservative friends throughout the District of Columbia, representing the different States of the Union, join us in trusting that the present, with its arguments, may be a harbinger of renewed future prosperity, tranquility and brotherly love throughout our land. We invoke Providence to strengthen your hands, to give courage and fortitude, and aid you in the successful performance of the mission it is yours to perform. Salus Populi suprema est lex.

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

The President then addressed the assemblage as follows:

FELLOW CITIZENS: It is not my intention to make an address upon this occasion, but to simply tender you my thanks for this demonstration approbating what your fellow-citizens have declared in the recent elections in the various States of the Union. They will appreciate your response to their wishes, and send back greeting that the union of the States must be maintained according to the original design of our fathers.

I confess I am gratified, but not surprised, at the result of the recent elections. I have always had an undoubting confidence in the people. They may be sometimes misled by a lying spirit in the mouths of interested and bad men, but in the end I believe they are always right. In the gloomiest hours which I have passed, and many of them, God knows, have been dark enough, when our Constitution was in the direst danger, when our free institutions were assailed by a formidable force, and our great Republic seemed to be tottering to its fall, and when I felt how vain were my efforts alone to preserve the institutions in their integrity and save the Republic from ruin, I was still hopeful; I had still an abiding confidence in them and felt assured they in their might would come to the rescue. They have come, and, thank God, they have come, and that our Republic may yet be saved.

It was but the other day last I officially declared that the remedy for the present unhappy condition of the country must come from the people themselves, and I know what the remedy is, and how it must be applied. At the present time they cannot, according to the forms of the Constitution, repeal the obnoxious laws; they cannot remove or control this military despotism. The remedy is, nevertheless, in their hands, and it is sure one, if not controlled by fraud, overawed by arbitrary power, or frozen by apathy on their part too long delayed.

With abiding confidence in their patriotism, wisdom and integrity, I am still hopeful that in the end the rod of despotism will be broken, the armed heel of power lifted from the neck of the people, and the principles of our violated Constitution preserved.

The people have spoken; the manner not to be misunderstood. Thank God that they have spoken, for it is upon their intelligence and their integrity that I have always relied, and still rely. The Constitution supported, the country, which has been scattered and divided before them for consideration, and it has had new life and vigor imparted to it from its original source, the people. It comes back to us with renewed strength. Let it now be translated high in the Heavens, written in letters of living light, as the symbol of liberty, Union, justice and fraternity. Good night.

The President was cheered during the delivery of the speech and also on its conclusion, and retired from the stand amid repeated cheers and instrumental music.

Frequent calls were made for Attorney General Stanbery. He was on the premises, but did not appear to make a speech.

CITY MATTERS.

CHURCH SOCIABLE AND SUPPER.—There will be a Supper and Sociable held in the First Presbyterian Church, (Rev. Mr. Swift's) Beaver street, Allegheny, this evening, commencing at six o'clock. Admission to Concert room and Supper will be seventy-five cents. There will be a musical entertainment by the Choir in connection with the Sociable during the evening. The proceeds are in aid of the Sabbath School, and all friends of the Church and School are invited to attend. A pleasant evening's entertainment may be anticipated.

PASTORAL CALL.—At a congregational meeting of the Third Presbyterian Church, of this city, held on Tuesday evening, a call was issued to the Rev. Mr. Noble, of St. Paul, Minnesota, to fill the vacancy in the pastorate of the Church occasioned by the resignation of Rev. Herrick Johnson, D. D. Rev. Mr. Noble preached a sermon in the Third Church Sunday before last while on a short visit to this city, and the congregation were so much pleased with him that they decided to extend a call to him. It is not known whether he will accept the call or not.

OUTRAGEOUS ASSAULT.—On Tuesday night about eleven o'clock, a man named John McLanahan, it is alleged, rapped at the house of Mr Uzziah Stewart, on Second street, and upon Mr. Stewart opening the door, McLanahan assaulted him with what is called a "loaded" cane, striking him on the forehead and also on the side of the head just above the temple, inflicting severe wounds. Mr. Stewart secured his assailant, but was prevented from inflicting merited punishment by other parties interfering. Dr. Murdoch was called upon and dressed Mr. Stewart's injuries. Information charging McLanahan with aggravated assault and battery was made before Mayor McCarthy yesterday, and was held to bail to answer.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A serious accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon to a laborer named Michael Murphy, employed in rebuilding the malt house, at the corner of Penn street and Barker's alley, which was destroyed by fire some time since. It appears that Murphy had ascended the ladder with a hod full of mortar, and was in the act of stepping from the ladder to the building when he lost his balance and fell to the ground, a distance of some twenty feet. He was immediately picked up, and Dr. John Hamilton, of Allegheny, summoned to attend him. He was subsequently moved to his boarding house in Allegheny, where he is now lying. His injuries, although severe, are not considered dangerous.

The May Queen Concert.

Our readers will remember that the May Queen concert will take place this evening, at Masonic Hall, and that reserved seats may be secured to-day at Kleber's, Wood street. Miss Hattie Jones, one of our most accomplished sopranos will sustain the part of the "May Queen," and will be supported by Miss Annie Miller, Miss Sue Beck, Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Ritchie, Miss Alice Patterson, and Messrs. Digby, Kearns, Lawton, Ritchie and others. The concert promises to be unusually entertaining, and as the performers are all home artistes they should have a crowded and fashionable audience.

Anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church.

The first anniversary of the Young Men's Library Association of the First Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, will be observed this evening. The exercises in the church will continue one hour, and will include prayers, reading of scriptures, reading of officers' reports, and brief addresses by Rev. F. S. Scovel and others. These exercises will be interspersed with choice sacred music by the choir, under the direction of Mr. C. C. Mellor presiding at the organ. Upon the conclusion of these exercises, the congregation will adjourn to the Lecture Room, where a church sociable will be held from half-past seven to half-past ten o'clock. Every member of the congregation is requested to be present, as the young men desire all who attend the church to become acquainted with the objects of the Library Association.

Organization of a New Social Temple of Honor.

Under authority of a charter granted by the Grand Temple of Honor of the State of Pennsylvania, a new Social Temple was organized under the auspices of Union Temple of Honor No. 28, on Wednesday evening, November 13, in Odd Fellows' Hall, Fifth ward, Pittsburgh. The G. W. T., James McCandless, performed the instituting ceremonies, some sixty members being present on the charter.

The following officers were elected and installed: B. P. T—T. W. Lyon; B. V. T—G. Irwin; B. P. T—B. F. Parkinson; B. R—Jas. P. Marshall; B. E. R—G. W. Bradley; B. V—Wm. Henderson; S. G—Mary Getty; S. P. T—Ella Ellison; S. V. T—Ella Curts; S. P. T—Bella Crumlish; S. R—Maggie McCandless; S. T—Lizzie Telford; S. V—Mary Evans; B. S—Matthew McCandless.

The want of such an organization for this city has long been felt and known amongst the Templars, and this well begun work proves the great desire of Templars to work in earnest for the good cause in which many worthy Templars are seeking the spread of the temperance cause in these cities. The true success of the temperance cause is thus spreading among us as a people. The name of this new Social Temple is "Star of the West."

THE PUBLIC PARKS OF ALLEGHENY.

The Plan Prepared and Adopted by the Commission—Brief Sketch of the Work—Seminary Hill Included—Fountains, Lakes, Bridges, Etc.—The Soldiers' Monument—A Novel Bridge Project—Splendid Drive, Etc.

The subject of converting the common grounds of Allegheny into public parks has been agitated, from time to time, for a long period, but no definite action was taken until last year, when S. Schoyer, Esq., after consultation with a number of leading citizens, members of Councils, and others, prepared a draft of an act of Assembly, providing for the conversion of the common grounds into parks, and fixing the general details. This act was approved by Councils, and passed by the Legislature in March last. It authorized the Councils of Allegheny to appoint a Park Commission, consisting of three members of that body, and three other citizens, not members, who, with the Mayor of the city, shall constitute said Commission. The Councils, pursuant to this provision, appointed Messrs. James Park, W. Jonathan Gallagher, and Robert Lea, (citizens, not councilmen,) and Messrs. A. H. English, John S. Slagle, and J. C. Patterson (councilmen), as said commission, who formally organized under the act, and have full power to carry out its provisions. The law authorizes the Commission to procure plans and specifications for the conversion of the common grounds into parks, and gives them entire control over the grounds, as well as all improvements which may be made thereon. It is provided, however, that the plans and specifications shall be submitted to Councils for their approval, and that the cost of the parks shall not exceed the sum of two hundred thousand dollars. The entire cost is to be defrayed by taxation upon all the real estate within the city limits, in proportion to the benefit which said property will receive, in the estimation of the commission. Bonds are to be issued, payable in ten years, and the taxation will thus be comparatively light. The act also makes it the duty of the City Engineer to furnish to the commission such plans as are required to facilitate their work.

PREPARATION OF THE PLAN.

In May last, Mr. Charles Davis, the City Engineer, prepared a topographical plot of the grounds, and made a report on their adaptability to ornamentation. He was subsequently authorized to visit the Eastern cities, examine the principal parks, confer with some of the best landscape architects, submit his plans to them, and obtain bids. Among those with whom Mr. Davis conferred were Messrs. Olmstead & Vaux, architects of Central Park, New York; Messrs. Shedd & Edson, architects of Mount Auburn, Boston; Mr. Saunders, Superintendent of the Experimental Gardens at Washington City; General Vielle, author of the first plan for Central Park, and Messrs. Donald G. Mitchell ("Ik Marvel") and Wm. H. Grant, Superintending Engineer of the Central Park. On his return Mr. Davis made a report, giving all the information which he had obtained on the subject to the Commission, who subsequently employed Messrs. Mitchell & Grant to make plans for improving the grounds. These gentlemen soon after entered upon the work assigned them, and prepared a systematic plan, which has been approved by the Commission, and through them will be presented to the Councils for their approval.

THE PLAN—ITS CHIEF FEATURES.

The plan is accompanied by a report, giving a detailed description of the work. We had the pleasure of examining the plan yesterday. This plan contemplates the ornamentation of the entire common grounds, including "Hogback," or Seminary Hill. On the South Common, owing to the narrowness of ground, there is but little attempted in the way of fancy work, and trees, shrubbery and walks will constitute the main embellishments. On the East Common, which is wider, some geometrical configuration has been planned, which presents a fine appearance. Immediately at the intersection of Ohio street and the East Common, will be a monumental structure or fountain. This can be seen from the southeast corner of the South Common, where another artistic design is contemplated. A spectator, standing at the intersection of Ohio street and Cedar Avenue, the exterior line of the East Common, can see down Ohio street to the West Common, where the eye will fall upon a lake and fountain. He can also look northward, to the north east corner of the North Common, where another architectural structure will be placed. On the North Common, which is still wider than those already mentioned, some elaborate ornamentation is provided for, with a central walk down to the West Common. The view from the eastern end of this walk, at which the principal fountain will be located, will terminate with or naturally center on a lake immediately opposite the mouth of Webster street, on the North Common. The West Common, which is much the largest ground, presents a greater scope for artistic display, and the artists appear to have studied the ground with great care, and given it the highest ornamentation of which it is susceptible. The track of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company traverses this ground, as does also Ohio street, until it reaches Western avenue. These thoroughfares could not be diverted and had to be "worked in" to the best advantage. The railroad track will be crossed in two places by rustic arched bridges, approached from various directions by winding walks. The railroad will be fenced in by a light wire fence, of such style as not to interfere with the view from either side. The long, blank wall of the Western Penitentiary will also receive from the pilasters and architectural embellishments on the pilasters, and suitable shrubbery, vines, etc., will be placed along it, so as to relieve the sameness, and give a pleasing variety to the eye. We have already alluded to the lake and fountain to be placed on the West Common, which will be near the center, and opposite the residences of Senator Graham and others. This will form a chief feature of the park. The roads and walks over the West Common are laid out with a regard to convenience in passing from one part of the city to the other, as well as to the beauty and symmetry of the plan.

SEMINARY HILL.

The drive along Irwin avenue, the exterior line of the West Common will lead up the Northern side of Seminary Hill, to the top, where the visitor will command a magnificent view—taking in the Park, the greater part of both cities, the Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, with the bridges which span them, and the commanding heights of Coal Hill on the South, and the range of hills on the North. It is proposed to erect the "Soldiers' Monument" on the top of this hill, which will in itself form a most attractive and interesting object.

AN AIRY BRIDGE.

A novel feature in the plan proposes a descent for pedestrians on the east side of the hill to the cliff, from whence a light and airy bridge will be thrown over Marion avenue and the railroad to that part of the West Common formerly occupied by the old grave yard. This part of the plan has been well considered and is deemed entirely practicable. The carriage way will describe a circle on the summit of the hill, and descend by the road to Irwin avenue.

THIS DRIVE ROUND THE PARK

The drive around the exterior of the Park will be continuous, and will in time become the drive of the city. If the streets are widened out to eighty or ninety feet, and covered with the Nicolson pavement, nothing could exceed the beauty, comfort and pleasure of the drive.

THE REPORT OF MESSRS. MITCHELL AND GRANT.

At a meeting of the Park Commission last evening the following report from Messrs. Mitchell & Grant was submitted:

To the Honorable the Commissioners of Public Grounds, Allegheny, Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN: Having been entrusted with the work of preparing a plan for the improvement of what are known as the "Common" Lands of Allegheny, we beg leave, in connection with a preliminary draft of such plan—herewith submitted—to make a brief report of our views in regard to the capabilities of the grounds named, and of the reasons which have governed us in the preparation of the plan.

In their present condition, the lands are unsightly in the extreme; and we are not surprised that the enterprise and public spirit of the inhabitants have demanded a change. Only a small portion of the south and east commons are enclosed, and the remainder serves at present as the dumping ground for the waste material of the city. Fully one-half of the level surface is disposed in narrow strips, bordered by avenues, for traffic. The open area at the west, offering the only inviting breadth for landscape treatment is bounded on the east by the blank wall of the Penitentiary; it is traversed by an irregular open ditch, in which flows a sluggish stream of foul water; by the Chicago & Fort Wayne Railway and by a broad public street equipped with rails for passenger cars.

The ditch can of course be done away with by proper sewerage; the railway must be a permanent difficulty—all the greater from the fact that its grade is only trifilingly below the general level of the ground.

The street it had been proposed to divert, but in view of all the objections it has been decided to attempt no change.

This comprises all the ground originally submitted for improvement. Subsequently, however, your Commission has entertained the project of embracing the (so called) Seminary Hill in their scheme, and a contour map of the same has been furnished. Several private residences, as well as the Theological Seminary, intervene between the hill and the other "common" grounds, though an open approach exists from Irwin Avenue, being the only present mode of access. In addition to this, difficulty, the eastern side of the hill—there, almost precipitous—is scarred by numerous clay pits and brick kilns, while a yawning coal yard occupies a still lower excavation.

It is only needful to recite these facts to make clear the difficulties with which the commission will have to contend.

The counter-balancing advantages are—that the grounds are within reach of all; they can be graded without great cost; they are admirably suited for planting, and will afford charming walks and shrubbery in the very heart of the city; while the hill, under the treatment we shall propose, will offer temptation to every stranger—will be easily accessible by a roadway of moderate grade, and by a bridge hereafter to be described.

Very few cities of the size and importance of Allegheny have such opportunity to establish a garden in their very midst; and the situation of the lands trailing throughout the most densely populated portions of the city, suggest those public walks of old European walled towns, where the ancient fortifications have given way to gardens—which, from their convenience, are among the most enjoyable of all the public grounds of Europe.

The citizens of Pittsburgh will undoubtedly be won over in large numbers to the enjoyment of the beautiful Park, you propose creating; and their avenue of approach—as well as that of most strangers—will be by the magnificent St. Clair bridge and by Federal street—an avenue which is metropolitan in its width and aspect. It is highly important that a corresponding amplitude be given to Stockton avenue, along the South Common. We would, therefore, propose the enlargement of the last named street, by doubling the present width, and rounding the corners upon Federal street, as indicated upon the map, so as to give to this point the air of a plaza. This increased breadth of the street will take away one-half of the present Common—already too narrow for any successful landscape treatment. We would propose the planting of the portion between Federal street and East Common with deciduous trees of such form and so disposed, as to allow free views across from side to side; from Federal street to the corner of Webster street we suggest, on the contrary, a plantation of dense shrubbery, with plentiful use of evergreens, to shut off the railway station and its appurtenances.

Where Stockton Avenue debouches upon the public grounds at the east, we would propose cutting off the end of East Common, so as to give a straight drive through to Cedar Avenue; and we would suggest the arrangement of the portion cut off in two clumps of evergreens (as in the map) to be enclosed and isolated.

The East Common, of two hundred feet in width, we have laid out in the form of a public garden, with a broad walk through the center shaded by an avenue of trees, with here and there a small parterre of flowers, at the angles of the side-walks. The same avenue, with its vista, is to be continued on the north of Ohio street, and to terminate in a fountain of fifty feet diameter at the end; which fountain is to have its plat-band of turf, and circlet of flowers, as indicated in the drawing.

Turning westward, the same disposition is continued to the intersection of Sandusky street.

Between Sandusky and Federal streets the central avenue is preserved, but the adjustment of side-paths shows different features and more curves.

Between Federal and Webster streets the avenues and central vista are still preserved, but the curves are greater, and an approach is gradually made to the irregularity that prevails on the West Common.

The first consideration on reaching West Common was, Should there be a carriage drive within the inclosures?

Under ordinary circumstances, upon an area so limited in extent, we should say, No: the space being none too large for proper adjustment of footways, and the exterior drive offering sufficient views of the park scenery. But, in the present case, there was one serious objection to excluding carriages altogether: no tour of the grounds could be made without the awkward railway crossing upon Irwin avenue. To avoid the necessity of this, it has been thought best, therefore, to give one sweep of carriage way of thirty feet in width, from the angle of Webster street and North avenue, around the Penitentiary enclosure and out at the angle of Ohio street and Marion avenue. This gives free circuit of the Park without crossing of the railway track, and by its easy curve does not interfere materially with the walks.

The first point in laying down the walks was to guard, so far as possible, the old prescriptive rights of those who have crossed the common for business or pleasure for years past. We have, therefore, arranged both paths and entrance ways with a view to the churches, schools, manufactories, &c. in the immediate neighborhood. While doing so, we have given as much grace to the path as seemed necessary for the carrying out of the landscape design.

The high forbidding mass of penitentiary walls is an ugly feature, it cannot be denied. We would strongly urge, if the matter be feasible, that the northwestern angle be truncated in the manner indicated by the dotted line of the map. This would make a vast change in the aspect of the common, and would not very materially diminish the available space within. We would farther urge a simple decoration of the walls—by turrets, or "lanters" at the angles and buttresses—as indicated by drawing A. [Herewith submitted.]

The expense of this would not be very great; the State authorities would possibly contribute a proportion, if not the entire cost.

In any event, we propose the planting out of the large mass of wall with shrubbery and thickets, and the further relief of the building by climbing vines.

Of course any system of paths which looks to public convenience must have its bridgeways over the railroad. The westernmost and most considerable one we propose to establish at the point indicated on the map, and as the railway and common are there of even level, we propose the excavation of an irregular pond of some seven hundred or one thousand square feet, the earth to be used in throwing up two irregular hillocks, which with additional material from other sources will make a start point for the bridge. We propose that these hillocks should be given, so far as possible, a wholly natural expression—that they should be planted with shrubbery and groups of evergreens—and propose a rustic bridge to spring across the track by a light arch, its ends hidden in the coppices established on the hillocks.

A view of the general effect of this bridge and its surroundings is given in drawing B.

The water it is proposed to supply by a jet, which shall be established in the middle of the pond at the point of its largest diameter. The waste water from the fountain, at the end of East Common, can also be conducted to this pool.

Another less important bridge, entered upon by steps, it is proposed to establish farther to the East, and carry over to the highroad, south of railway, as indicated by the drawing.

Various devices have been suggested for rendering as little obnoxious as possible the presence of the Railway. We propose neither to arch over, nor to plant out, but simply to adopt it, and its right of way, as one of the inevitable features of the Park grounds. We propose, therefore, that, in concert with the Railway officials, the slopes be carefully graded and turfed to within three feet of the exterior rails—the road bed itself to be neatly and compactly gravelled.

We further propose the adjustment of shrubbery and parterres of flowers here and there along its reach in such manner that every stranger entering the place by rail shall have his curiosity piqued by the sight of a beautiful garden at the threshold of your city. He will see fountains and grass, shrubbery and flowers, protected only by the lightest possible trellis of wire, and the road bed itself a type of neatness.

We believe that such novel treatment will provoke a wish to linger, and that Allegheny will be the first city to give such garden welcome to every stranger who approaches it. Of course, at the crossing by Irwin avenue and by Webster street there must be wide and deep ditches to exclude all stray cattle and pigs, which, it is to be hoped, your city will soon see the necessity, of excluding altogether from your streets.

With such earnest of your enterprise and progress in all healthy and high civilization, as these public grounds will show, it will be hard if pigs are not speedily driven to their pens. It will be observed that the groups of shrubbery have been disposed near the central portions of the grounds, while in other portions, notably south of the highway, planting is sparse, so as to interrupt as little as possible the view from without of the bridges, fountains and other central features. We would strongly urge new balustrades for existing bridges.

In establishing the main entrance we have ventured to truncate the corner of the Penitentiary grounds, which gives a much larger effect, and can be of no possible damage to the State grounds.

The angle formed by Marion avenue we have also shorn away and propose planting the borders of this sunken space with rich shrubbery, while a parterre of showy herbaceous flowers is established in the bottom.

The other flowers are established only in low quarters, which would not be desirable for walks.

Crossing Ridge street from the gate at the southwestern angle, we enter upon a roadway at the end of Irwin Avenue leading to the top of Seminary Hill. A small circlet of drive here is all that is practicable, and is only suggested in view of the wish of many strangers to enjoy with as little fatigue as possible its incomparable view.

The walks climb the extreme height and encircle a space reserved for such monument as the patriotism of the people may hereafter decide upon. To the east, the walk by quick curves, reaches a Rustic Belvidere, upon the extreme eastern brow of the hill, where one may enjoy the wonderful panorama at his leisure. The whole edge and slope of the height we propose to decorate with a great variety of shrubbery and evergreens, and to establish, if thought desirable, a grotto upon the flank of the hill. This method will shut out of sight the rear of the residences at the bottom of the hill and make their presence unobjectionable.

By zig zag descent of the eastern face through groups of Rhododendrons, Scotch firs, kalmics, hemlocks, &c., we propose to reach a flying suspension bridge, which, by three successive leaps, shall span the clay pits, the brick yard, the road and rail, and land the stranger upon that portion of the Park which fronts Webster street.

A view of the probable effect of this bridge of some three hundred feet in length is given in drawing C.

The stairways, in connection with chains of suspension, are new features, but involve no engineering difficulty.

We advise a rounding of the corner of Webster street and Stockton avenue in the manner indicated by drawing, after which a wide street will conduct one again to the point of departure at corner of Federal street.

We strongly urge, in addition, the establishment of all the Avenues encircling the Park grounds in gravel or Macadam, to the disuse of cobble stones. It will form essentially a pleasure drive, and a pleasure drive over cobble stones is impracticable.

We need hardly say that a plan whose success depends so largely upon proper management of details, both in planning and architectural appointment, will require for sometime very judicious and critical supervision; but we believe that proper attention and moderate expenditure (in view of the extent of the work) will secure a result of which your city and State may well be proud, and which will proffer an example of enterprise and public spirit that may well provoke the emulation of every city of the west.

MITCHELL & GRANT,
51 West Tenth street, New York City.
October 14, 1867.

The above plan will probably be submitted to Councils at their meeting this evening, and we need not say that it will command that careful consideration which its importance demands. The City Engineer, Mr. Davis, as well as the other gentlemen concerned, are entitled to great credit for the skill and ability which they have displayed in placing the work in such a satisfactory and tangible shape.

Ewing, Assistant Chairman of the Collection Committee, at the rooms of the Christian Association for concert of action.

[Signed] W. C. MCCARTHY, Mayor,

It is requested by the Committee on Collections that the proprietors or foremen of mills and work shops of every kind, start subscription lists among the workmen under their charge, thus offering to a very large number, not to be reached in any other way, the opportunity of giving something, however small, to the cause. Some of the employee's subscriptions reported below, were headed: "Messrs. Proprietors, please deduct from our wages the sums set opposite our names, etc." The gross amount of their subscriptions was then paid by the firms to the committee to be assumed by the men on the next pay day, and although no one subscription was large, yet the aggregate of each list made a most gratifying addition to the funds. Thus the report from Messrs. Lewis, Bailey, Dalzell & Co.'s Iron Mill yesterday, was four hundred and six ($406) dollars, of which three hundred and six ($306) dollars was from the workmen. To further illustrate the value of "many littles" in this effort, it is deserving of mention that the contributions made by the pupils of the First Ward Public Schools of Allegheny, with one department omitted, amounted to fifty-two dollars and forty-eight cents ($52 48). It consisted of eight hundred and fifty (850) separate contributions or pieces of money.

To obviate some difficulties that may occur in the management of their charity, we again append the card published by the President of the Association;

TO THE BENEVOLENT PUBLIC:

In accordance with the resolution adopted at the late public meeting of the citizens, by which donations for the relief of the sufferers by the recent calamity were recommended to be applied through the Committee on Distribution, appointed by the Young Men's Christian Association, it is requested that all collections and donations for this purpose, by churches, societies, schools, stores, manufacturing establishments and individuals, be left at the rooms of the Association, No. 23 Fifth street, with full lists of the donors, which will be published in the daily papers. If contributors' names do not appear in these lists, they will confer a favor by communicating the particulars as to the name, amount, and to whom given, to the Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association. To prevent confusion and useless effort, it is also requested that no one give to any of the families involved without consultation and concert of action with the Committee on Distribution, (of which E. T. Cook, Esq., insurance agent, No. 80 Fourth street, is chairman,) as they are now in possession of full particulars of the condition of each family, and have systematically undertaken to look after the needy during the winter. A public statement of the expenditures of this committee will from time to time be made. With the kind assistance of the Women's Christian Association, the immediate wants of the sufferers are now relieved; but it will require a very much larger amount than has already been contributed to make sure of anything like a permanent relief of these destitute and afflicted people. Let every one in the community and vicinity do what they can, and at once.

OLIVER MCCLINTOCK, President.

United Presbyterian Intelligence.

The United Presbyterian congregation of Logan's Ferry now have one service every Sabbath, instead of one service every fourth Sabbath, as formerly.

At the recent meeting of the U. P. Presbytery of Bloomington, Illinois, Rev. John D. Glenn was received on certificate from the U. P. Presbytery of Allegheny, and is expected to labor at Loda, Iroquois county, Illinois, where a congregation of thirty-five members was organized September 18th, 1867.

At the same meeting of Bloomington Presbytery, a call from the congregation of New Brenton, Ills., organized with thirty-five members May 14th, 1867, addressed to J. C. Bingham, a member of Mercer Presbytery, was sustained as regular, and laid on the table, subject to his direction.

At a called meeting of the Sidney U. P. Presbytery, held in Bellbrook, Rev. J. W. Bain was received on certificate from the Presbytery of Chartiers. The call from Sidney congregation, addressed to Rev. Bain, was placed in his hands, and by him accepted. With a view to his installation, which will take place on Tuesday next, the following arrangements were made: Rev. John Williamson to preach the sermon, Rev. J. W. Taylor to address the pastor, and Rev W. C. Dunn the congregation.

The ladies of Unity U. P. congregation, at a recent Sabbath School celebration, made their pastor, Rev. James Kelso, a handsome donation.

A special meeting of the Allegheny Presbytery will be held in the First U. P. Church, Allegheny City, on Tuesday next, at two o'clock, P. M., to act upon the call of the New Brighton congregation and attend to other matters of importance.

Subscriptions are being raised by the various U. P. Church Boards in this city and vicinity for the erection of a house for the Rev. J. C. Nevin, formerly of this city, and now Missionary of the U. P. Church in China.

ENTERTAINMENT AT NEW BRIGHTON.—The Everett Literary Society, of New Brighton, will give an entertainment at School Hall, in that place, this evening, the proceeds to be applied to the fund for the benefit of the sufferers by the late explosion in this city. The citizens of New Brighton should respond to this effort of the Society by crowding the hall.

Another Adjournment

The Inquest to Meet at Noon To-Day.

The Coroner's jury, empannelled to investigate into the causes of the explosion at Reese, Graff & Dull's mill, on the 8th inst., met in the City Controller's office yesterday afternoon, and proceeded to hear further evidence in the case. The following testimony was taken:

TESTIMONY OF MR. KUNTZ.

Adam Kuntz, a member of the firm of Kuntz & Limpert, was the first witness sworn. Mr. Kuntz testified that his establishment is situated opposite Messrs. Reece, Graff & Dull's rolling mill. Had repaired the exploded boilers several times, and knew that they had been manufactured from good iron. Examined them on Monday before the explosion, and put in ten or twelve new rivets. They were in good condition at that time. On the outside boilers there were three gauge cocks, and, I think, two on the middle boiler. Had been acquainted with Edwin Hutchinson, the engineer, for about two years, and considered him a competent engineer and attentive to his business. Did not see him alive on the day of the explosion. Mr. Hutchinson often complained of too much acid in the boilers, but I never noticed that the boilers had been corroded.

TESTIMONY OF THE ASSISTANT ENGINEER.

Wm. Collins, sworn—Am the Assistant Engineer at Reese, Graff & Dull's Rolling Mill; was in the bar mill at the time of the explosion. Had been at the boilers which exploded about an hour before the accident. Mr. Hutchinson was present at the time, and perfectly sober. Have worked under him for five years, and always found him attentive to his business, and very careful. There were eight engines (large and small) and two sets of boilers; believe all the engines were running at the time. Mr. Hutchinson had the general supervision of all the engines. He attended personally to the large engine, the small shear engine and the water pump; they all had governors; when once started all the attention they required was to keep them oiled. Do not think, from the manner in which the engines were arranged, that Mr. H. had too much work. There were two firemen employed—one for each set of boilers. From my knowledge Mr. H. was not further away from the boilers during the morning than the blacksmith shop—a distance of about one hundred feet. Heard and saw Mr. Hutchinson try the water fifteen or twenty minutes before the explosion. The water was at the upper gauge at the time. He tried the inside boiler, the one next the engine. I was sitting on a coal box about thirty feet from him. The engines were supplied from the same tank, and there was plenty of water at my engine. Mr. Hutchinson was my uncle. The engines were fired with slack. Never knew him to leave the mill without calling some one to attend in his absence. Am positive that there were gauge cocks on all the boilers.

THE FIREMAN EXAMINED.

John Murphy, sworn—Was fireman for Mr. Hutchinson; was about twelve yards distant from the boilers when the explosion occurred. Have worked for Mr. Hutchinson for two years. He was not absent for any length of time during the morning; he could not have been away for fifteen minutes without I would have known it. The injector was not working at the time I turned it off, about five minutes before the explosion, because there was plenty of water in the boilers. The water was up to the third cock of the inside boiler at the time; there were gauge cocks on all the boilers. I cleaned out the grates about an hour and a half before the explosion. I had authority from the engineer to turn off the injector when the water was too high in the boilers. The engineer was sitting on a block, near his engine, at the time and might have noticed me. We were carrying about 120 pounds of steam at the time. I know this from observing the steam gauge about two minutes before the explosion. Saw steam blowing off from the safety valve at that time. I did not leave the boilers because I apprehended any danger, and did not make any such statement, but went from the boilers because I was called by a puddler who wanted me to run two balls down to the squeezer. The engineer was apparently dozing at the time. I called his attention by putting my hand on him and told him I was going. He answered, "all right." I saw him about eight or nine minutes before this: he was then holding the lever of the governor valve. I am sure that Mr. Hutchinson was perfectly sober at that time.

TESTIMONY OF THE WATCHMAN.

Archibald McCauley, watchman of the establishment, was next examined, and testified that he was acquainted with the engineer. He arrived at the mill about twenty minutes before five o'clock on the morning of the explosion. We had a conversation about the pump that supplied the tank from which water was conducted to the boilers, when Mr. Hutchinson stated the pump was in better order than it had been for a year. Am positive that he was not under the influence of liquor at that time.

TESTIMONY OF MR. HENNAMAN.

George Henneman, sworn—Am a blacksmith, and am employed by Messrs. Reese, Graff & Dull. I was in the blacksmith shop at the time of the explosion. I did some slight repairing about the governor of Mr. Hutchinson's engine about three-quarters of an hour before the explosion. The engineer carried the work from the blacksmith shop, put it on the engine himself, and said that it was all right. Am positive that he was perfectly sober at the time. Have known Mr. Hutchinson for three years; he was a good engineer, and always said to me when he wanted repairing done—"George, take the best iron you can get." I always used the best iron I could get.

TESTIMONY OF ONE OF THE "HELPERS."

Patrick Stack, sworn—Am a "helper" employed at Messrs. Rees, Graff & Dull's Rolling Mill. Was in the hoop mill at the time of the explosion. Saw Mr. Hutchinson twice that morning; about twenty minutes before the accident, went out to the engine to see what time it was; he was perfectly sober at the time. I threw some hot billets of iron, drawn from the furnace, under the flue. This would perhaps heat the iron.

A RECESS.

At this point the inquest took a recess until seven o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

The inquest convened at seven o'clock, when the following additional evidence was adduced:

TESTIMONY OF MR. HARRIS.

Thomas Harris, sworn—Am chief engineer in Shoenberger & Co.'s Rolling Mill. Have seen the boilers frequently since the explosion, and examined them daily; made the last examination this afternoon; there was only one gauge cock in the middle boiler and three on each of the others. The lower cock was two and a half inches above the top of the flue; the others were two inches apart, making the second gauge four and a half inches and the third six and a half above the flues. There was a mark on the shell indicating the water line; am satisfied that this mark was above the top of the flues; observed this mark on one shell and could not tell to which of the boilers it belonged; from examining the only piece of flue found am satisfied that it was covered with water; one evidence of this fact is that if the iron had been hot the seams would have been strained, and another is that the iron had not been burned out of the flue. Examined the collapsed flues; one in particular, which was found in the guide mill building, was collapsed as close as possible, one end being doubled over and fractured; the corners of the fracture appeared bright, indicating that fracture had been made when the iron was cold; if it had been overheated it would have presented a blue appearance; observed one of the boilers heads to which the flues were attached, and found that they had collapsed by bringing the sides together, and not the top and bottom; saw some of the flues which had collapsed by bringing the top and bottom together. Suppose the explosion was caused by an overpressure, but am satisfied that the water could not be reduced so much in the boilers as to uncover the flues; think there was not a scarcity of water in the boiler. The witness stated that he was not prepared to advance any theory as to the cause of the explosion; noticed the stamp on every whole sheet of the boiler iron that came under my observation. Knew Mr. Hutchinson, the engineer for eighteen or nineteen years; believed him to be a good engineer and capable of running an engine of that class; he was equal to the average of engineers employed in the other mills of the city.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN GRIPP.

John Gripp, boiler maker, employed at James Thorn & Co.'s establishment, was the next witness. I have examined the exploded boilers several times since Friday; found them badly ripped up, and the only cause I can give for it is low water and over pressure; believe the iron was good, and the boilers well made; saw two pieces of the flues that appeared to have been overheated; one that was not; the scales was on the latter one and soot was in it; this could not have been the case if it had been overheated; the most of the flues were collapsed up and down—one was collapsed sideways; the water might have shown that it was above the third guage, by foaming. If the water is dirty it generally foams in the boiler.

TESTIMONY OF ANDREW TITZEL.

Andrew Titzel, sworn—Am Assistant Superintendent of Reese, Graff & Dull's Rolling Mill, and was present on the day of the explosion. Shortly before the explosion took place—two minutes perhaps—I passed the boilers, and went to the stock taker, who had just come out of the mill with a wheelbarrow; had hardly spoken to him when the explosion occurred. I only heard one report. Saw the engineer half an hour, or probably an hour before; he was standing by the engine holding a rod which leads to the governor valve; he was sober. At the moment of the explosion we were breaking down piles; he must have been attending the governor valve about ten minutes prior to the explosion. He could not have been asleep at that time, as he must have been engaged with the governor of his engine. I considered him a very excellent engineer, and he kept the machinery in good order; never heard of any complaints as to his carelessness; never heard of any one objecting to enter the mill to repair the machinery giving as a reason that the engineer was reckless; I would have been likely to have heard any such objections if they had been made.

THE ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN.

Mr. Harris, recalled—It is customary in most of the mills for one Chief Engineer to have the general supervision of all the motive power. Such is the case in the mills of Brown & Co., Zug & Co., Shoenberger & Co., Hailman, Rahm & Co., Hussey, Wells & Co., Park, Bro. & Co., and Lloyd & Black. Think there should be one man to attend each large engine, and one fireman for each set of boilers.

Mr. Dull, recalled—We had an engineer for each large engine, and a fireman for each set of boilers.

TESTIMONY OF ALEX. BLACK.

Alexander Black, sworn—I supply the mill with coal, and do the hauling generally. I was at the mill an hour before the explosion. I wanted to borrow a wrench to fix a wagon, and asked Mr. Hutchinson for it. He loaned it to me, telling me not to keep it very long. Took it back in about fifteen minutes and returned it to him. He was sober at that time. Have supplied the mill with coal for the last two years, and have been there daily during that time. I received my instructions from Mr. Hutchinson as to the disposition of the coal. During the entire time I never saw him under the influence of liquor. Mr. Hutchinson and I never drank liquor together in our lives. I supplied slack to the establishment that day.

TESTIMONY OF HENRY HOLT.

Henry Holt, sworn—Am a blacksmith, and have charge of the furnace building at Reese, Graff & Dull's rolling mill. Was at the mill ten minutes to eleven o'clock on the day of the explosion; passed the boilers to look at the clock; conversed with Mr. Hutchinson; afterwards left him and sat down by the squeezers. Mr. Hutchinson was sitting on a block about three feet from the engine. He was not sleeping; he was sober; I have seen him daily for six weeks. I have considerable spare time about the mill, and frequently talked with him; never knew him to be under the influence of liquor.

ANOTHER ADJOURNMENT.

The jury, seeing that it would be impossible to close the testimony without holding another session, agreed to adjourn until to-day at noon, at which time it is probable that a verdict will be agreed upon.

BOY RUN OVER.—A boy named Pritchard, aged ten years, was run over by a wagon laden with scrap iron on Second street, in the Eighth ward, about dusk on Tuesday, breaking both his thighs. The boy was taken the home of his father, who resides in the vicinity of the accident, where he was attended by a physician.

Public Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Julia Dean last evening produced DeWalden's last new comedy, "Married not Mated," to a large audience, and it was well received. It is somewhat melo-dramatic, but possesses sufficient interest to keep the audience in good spirits. Miss Dean performed the part of the heroine in a very acceptable manner. The play will be repeated to-night.

The Decker Pianos.

One of our exchanges in speaking of the new scale Decker Bros.' Pianos, says: "The improvements which the Decker Brothers have effected in the construction of piano-fortes are of sterling merit. Simple means are used to produce admirable results. It is a disputed question whether it is better for the production of tone that the strings should rest upon wooden or iron bearings. There are strong examples in favor of both; but the Decker Brothers have illustrated the principle of wooden bearing with decided success. The result of their invention, as applied to their pianos, are perfectly satisfactory. The instruments are pure and beautiful in quality, with a rare refinement and sympathy in the tone, perfect in equality throughout the whole scale, and of sufficient power, without deteriorating into noise. The improvement, which they have now effected, is the application of their patent principle to an instrument of a larger and broader scale. In the production of their scale they labored several years, making many costly experiments.

"The improvement is a palpable one; the tone of the piano is nearly double, while its exquisitely refined, sympathetic, and singing quality is preserved intact. It is a square piano, of the very highest excellence; it is powerful and sonorous in tone, while at the same time it is entirely free from coarse reverberation; it possesses the utmost purity of tone, combined with power, sweetness, mellowness, and brilliancy. In the equality of its scale it is without a blemish, so finely are the registers graduated. The touch is of the best quality; it answers quickly to the fingers, and has all the strength necessary to produce the full power of the piano, without being stiff or heavy. The workmanship is as perfect as conscientious and skillful labor can procure from well seasoned and first-rate materials, and in point of exterior beauty, the Decker Brothers' pianos cannot be excelled."

A large supply of the "new scale" just received by C. C. Mellor, the sole agent for this city—Rooms 81 Wood street.

The Daily Commercial

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1867.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

As proof of the estimate placed on the market reports of the COMMERCIAL, we will state that they are regularly copied by the New York Economist, Shipping List, Iron Age, and other papers of this character in that and other cities, and that leading English commercial papers and circulars regularly reprint them with credit. There is within five hundred miles, hardly an Iron Factory, Oil Refinery, or leading manufactory of any kind that is not a subscriber to the COMMERCIAL, principally, because its reports are the only full and reliable given of the Pittsburgh markets.

THE letter of THADDEUS STEVENS on the finances, which for the moment caused a tremor, has produced no perceptible influence in financial circles, where the regret is general that he should have written it. MR. STEVENS has on different occasions proposed his financial theories, but he has never been in accord with Congress or the Government, and the prospect as to the present letter is no better.

MR. JOHNSON appears, either from his close association with General GRANT or from some other cause, to have fallen into reticent habits, to the great inconvenience of the ring of expectant Democrats who surround him. They have, therefore, got up an arrangement on the principle, apparently, of the egg-persuader for inducing hens to lay, for the purpose of bringing out a speech from Mr. JOHNSON. A serenade is proposed with this express design. Adequate preparations are also made for a general cackling and crowing, when the experiment of the speech-persuader shall have proved a success.

THE activity of Gen. GRANT in reducing the expenses of the War Department, and the many radical reforms he has already instituted, are making him strong with the people, independent of his fame as the leader of our armies. A gentleman who has spent some time in Washington assures us that the General is as much at home in the War Department as he would be at the head of a regiment. It cannot have escaped notice that he is the only one possessing power who is in earnest in the work of economizing the public expenses. Comprehending the situation of the country, like a good patriot he is doing everything in his power to lighten the burthens of the people and remove the clouds which obscure the financial prospect.

GENERAL GRANT has directed that no leave of absence for army officers be granted or even considered unless applied for through the regular channels, and that applications of outside parties will not be heeded. This is designed to put an end to that abuse of political influence by which certain officers are permitted to stay away from their command, and others denied leave that ought to have it.

Why would not this be a good rule for every department and as to appointment as well? Probably not one appointee in a hundred is selected because of his qualifications. The pernicious idea of favoritism, without regard to qualifications, has crept in so far that in every department incompetent and dishonest men are to be found. The consequences in the aggregate cannot be inconsiderable; and the subject is one that should receive the attention of Congress, to the end that the qualifications of applicants shall be rigidly inquired into.

THE proposition to elect unpledged delegates to the Mayoralty Convention is received with much favor by Republicans of the city. All accounts agree that our recent reverses are in no small degree owing to the character of our nominations and the way they were made. We should be wanting in vigilance did we not counsel our friends to embrace the first opportunity to commence the work of reform. With good nominations nothing but harmony will prevail and the result will be beyond a doubt; otherwise—as we have seen in the late elections—Republicans cannot be counted on to ratify at the polls. An unpacked Convention, composed of delegates independent to act as shall seem best, will be a good beginning of the work of repairing damages. Any other course, we greatly fear, will only aggravate them.

CERTAIN organs say the late elections went as they did because Congress did not impeach the President. What would have been a preventive they say will be a perfect cure. The prospect is that these self-appointed and all-important organ-grinders will find themselves grinding to a very small and a very ragged crowd. Few Republicans listen with satisfaction to such music now, though the grinders grind ever so lustily. Congress will no doubt be invited to dash into impeachment the first day it meets; but the country asks that it shall take up the financial and kindred questions first. Bad as he is, Mr. JOHNSON in the Presidential chair is not the chief source of irritation. The office of statesmanship is to deal with the questions relating to our financial condition, and the country will not be satisfied if the Republican majority in Congress permit the impeachment or any other clamor to divert them from such a course.

[From the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

THE COMMERCIAL takes it for granted that every man has a short memory, else it would not, in view of the defeat of the constitutional amendment in Ohio allowing the blacks to vote, express unbounded delight, and sneeringly affirm that "Senator Wade and his set will not hereafter be able to badger the Republicans, in or out of Congress, into acts or a line of policy at variance with private judgment and in excess of public opinion and reason besides." Not many months ago our neighbor was as clamorous for negro suffrage as Senator Wade has been; wanted it with conditions or without, just as might happen; and tried to "badger" the Legislature into passing a law to that end, though the Constitution stood plainly in the way, as it does now. Our contemporary has a clear right to change its opinions, and does so as often as a common weather cock; but we submit it has no right to abuse Senator Wade because he will not make a weather cock of himself.

So grinds the "organ." It must grind something. It would not fulfill the office if it did not make the COMMERCIAL the theme. The machine must be kept going, somehow. They who control its stops and give the pitch would not be satisfied if the "organ" did not just so often show that it had a plentiful supply of wind, by playing that old familiar tune. It is hard to say what would become of our neighbor if he could not have the COMMERCIAL to fire at. Some men derive their only importance from carping at their betters; and it is with newspapers as with men. This is the principal stock-in-trade of our neighbor. The tune it has so often ground to all sorts of ragamuffin crowds, though played out, is the very best it has.

Our neighbor's circulation being small and select, we copy the above to give it the benefit of our own. It is too bad to deprive outsiders of such good things. The "organ" will now proceed to grind again.

MR. SEWARD AS A PROPHET.

There are so many false prophesies in politics, that when a true one appears and is approved by the progress of events, we like to give it due recognition and honor. It will be recollected that, during the famous speech-making tour of the President and part of his Cabinet, last year, from Washington to Chicago, Mr. SEWARD made a queer speech, perhaps at Indianapolis, in which were a number of things that greatly puzzled the hearers and the readers. Part of it was so queer that some skeptical people attributed it to an influence of the grosser kind of spirits. But it now appears to have been the regular afflatus or ecstacy.

The particular prediction to which we refer was nearly in these words, viz: Hereafter the Southern States are to be the loyal and the Northern the disloyal States. And if we remember rightly he placed Indiana among the Border States, but this is not material. The general statement was as we have given it. Now, if the late elections in the Northern States prove one-half of what the Democrats claim for them, what do the late elections in the Southern States prove? There the voting was in favor of the reconstruction of the Union, which is loyalty. The Democratic claim, eagerly indorsed by the rebel element in the South, is that the elections in the North are of exactly the opposite significancy. And so Mr. SEWARD is approved as a true prophet.

A GOOD LAW.

None of the experimental legislation of Congress—and from the anomalous condition of the country much of the legislation has been necessarily of this character—has better approved the wisdom and patriotism of the body than that which established the Freedmen's Bureau. The new conditions and relations of the colored people imperatively demanded special laws both for their protection and improvement, in their novel position. Ignorant themselves and exposed to antipathies, both for their former and their present condition, it was the solemn duty of the controlling powers of the Government to interpose in their behalf, that they might not be losers by the very change which the Government has made for its own ends, in their social relations.

The action taken, although opposed by prejudice and power and followed with vituperation and ridicule, has been productive of valuable results. In these, both whites and blacks have participated. Undoubtedly the condition of society has been, for the two and a half years past, far more orderly and peaceful than it would have been without such action. Both official reports and private observation afford ample evidence of this. The provisions of the law were adapted to an exigency that was believed to be temporary, and accordingly the law was for a limited period. Whether it shall expire by its own limitation or be renewed, there cannot be a reasonable doubt of its having been thus far a most wise and useful law. An impulse has been given in the minds of both races, in favor of the education of the freedmen, and a beginning in that direction has been made, both of which promise the happiest results. And a period, that might have been one of disorder and danger, has been passed safely through, without damage or wrong to either race, as such. Whatever diversity of opinion may be entertained of other legislation concerning the colored people—and viewed from party stand-points there is diversity—there can be no reason to deny, on grounds of patriotism and humanity, that the operations of the Freedmen's Bureau have been signally beneficial.

A New Metal from Mixed Ores.

Among the many branches of American industry we know of none of greater importance to the present welfare and future development of Pittsburgh, than the cheap and successful manufacture of iron; and we are always pleased to learn of any unusual achievement in that line in our midst. For a long time, Pittsburgh has been looked on as probably the most advantageous location in the country for rolling mills, foundries, &c., on account of its superior and boundless fields of coal, and the facilities of ready shipment during all seasons of the year to the Eastern and Western markets. But, until within a few years, our fuel has not been considered of a quality that would work to as great advantage in the smelting furnace, or make metal of as high grade, as the Anthracite or Mahoning Valley coals. These views, we are glad to say, have proven erroneous by practical test, and we now find in our midst several establishments that are making metal, that will compete in quality, and surpass in quantity of their production, most of the furnaces in the localities we have mentioned. Among these establishments we had the pleasure a few days ago of visiting that of Messrs. Shoenberger & Blair, in the Fifth ward in our city, and through the kindness of their foundryman, Mr. Murphy, we were shown through their establishment, and were surprised to find one of such magnitude, and so systematically and conveniently arranged. To give a full description of this extensive concern would take more time and space than we are able to give, but to any party interested in the manufacture of irons we will simply say, we know of no furnaces so well worth seeing. At the present time they have but one stack in blast; in it they are working the Marmora ore, (a new mine opened this season in Canada, in which some of our Pittsburgh capitalists are interested;) along with a mixture of Lake Superior and Missouri ores. Their product last week was two hundred and twenty tons of strong, open grained, grey forge metal, and the week previous one hundred and ninety-five tons of metal of the same grade and character. Making the same grade of metal, we will venture to say, this amount has never been exceeded in the same space of time by any furnace of similar capacity west of the Mountains. The working of the metal, in the puddling furnace, we are told, was perfectly satisfactory; making a strong fibrous ore. With such success, we have no fear of Pittsburgh losing her prestige.

IN LONDON subscription books have been opened for the stock of the "Metropolitan Restaurant Company." The company promises extraordinary accommodations, at low prices, and is undertaken, according to the prospectus "to provide superior dinners, luncheons, wines, &c., of the finest description procurable in the markets, free from all adulteration or mixture, and at a profit of 2½ per cent. on the wholesale price."

Whoever utilizes the idea of cooking well and properly and furnishing a given community just as much food, and no more, as will supply the legitimate demands, will confer on the world a blessing beyond price. With the mass of civilized mankind life is little better than a struggle for food, more than half of which is spoiled in the cooking, and much of the other half wasted through an arrangement whereby nearly everybody buys more than would suffice for every want.

Two conspicuous individuals are going to be tried, the one for attempting to extend the area of freedom, the other for endeavoring to set slavery on firmer foundations. Both were revolutionary, the one attacking a despotic government, the other a free one. Both were unsuccessful, and hence their trial. Garibaldi, the champion of freedom, was overpowered by the combination of despots against him; Jefferson Davis was overpowered by freemen. Yet we hear the lips of men, professing respect for civil liberty and human rights, reviling Garibaldi with all the epithets familiar to hatred and contempt. Is it not fair evidence of their sympathy with Jefferson Davis and of a wish that he had been successful in dismembering and destroying the Union?

THE Herald says now that the citizens of New York "have tried the Nicolson pavement and know the great superiority over all others in point of comfort and cleanliness, there is a general desire that the leading thoroughfares in the city for pleasure travel, on Fifth avenue, may be paved with it from one extremity to the other." It is agreed on all hands that very much depends on the way the Nicolson is laid down. No other style of pavement, it is said, can be made bad so easily as this. We take it for granted that in Pittsburgh this will be properly guarded against. The character of the contractor ought to be a sufficient guaranty.

THE correspondence of the Tribune from all parts of the world is the freshest as well as the most valuable furnished to any newspaper in existence.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Tribune is mistaken. There is one paper that beats it all hollow. It is too modest to say so itself, so we speak for it. If our neighbor—Sir Oracle—were to speak, it would be to say—as did the phrenological lecturer who announced there was one man who combined all the great qualities of Webster, Clay and Calhoun—"modesty forbids that we should say more."

THE personal character of a large part of the men elected in New York city is far below criticism; the principal Senators are of the ring; the Assemblymen elect are from the grog shops, and there are several prize-fighters among the elect. But they are all Democrats, and that covers the whole as with a cloak.

A NEW YORK letter says: The conference between the Merchants' Union and the old express companies terminated to-day without being able to make any mutually satisfactory arrangements, either as regards consolidation or pro rata freights. The report now is that the war is to be renewed with vigor. This turn of affairs created a panic in the shares of both companies this afternoon. Adams' fell from 69¾ to 67¼; United States from 72 to 67¾; Wells, Fargo & Co from 52½ to 51¾, and Merchants' Union was steady at 31@31½.

Archbishop McCloskey is stirring up his clergy, and the clergy are stirring up their congregations to give $100,000 per annum until the great cathedral in the Fifth avenue is completed.

PERSONAL.

—All famous Americans are claimed by foreign lands. The latest instance is Mrs. Lincoln, whom some one in England remembers as a girl there, and recalls the circumstances of her coming to this country.

—The telegraph has announced the postponement of the Cole trial. An Albany correspondent writes as follows: "Mr. Cole was in court, attended by his brother, Senator Cole, of California, while James T. Brady, of New York, and Judge Amasa J. Parker, who have recently been added to William J. Hadley, of Albany, as the prisoner's counsel, occupied seats within his close proximity. Mr. Cole looked somewhat careworn, as if his close confinement had undermined his health, as his previous active life must necessarily be in great contrast to his present condition. Yet withal there was an expression that occasionally, during the few minutes he sat in the court room, flitted over his face, that betokened that hope had a happy influence upon his mind and heart."

—At the residence of Colonel James Page, in Philadelphia, a few days ago, a number of the surviving members of the State Fencibles met, a military organization of that city, which was stationed at Camp du Pont in 1814. Out of a company of one hundred and thirty but seventeen are now alive. Colonel Page entertained thirteen of them on the occasion mentioned, and their united ages foot up nine hundred and sixty-five years. None were under seventy-two.

—Frederick A. Packard, Esq., editor of the publications of the American Sunday School Union, died in Philadelphia on Monday morning, aged seventy-three years. He was born in Springfield, Mass., where he practiced law for some years. In 1829 he removed to Philadelphia, in order to discharge the duties of the position he has ever since retained. His long incumbency of a post accompanied with many difficulties attest his ability and Christian character.

—The New York Board of Councilmen have unanimously appointed a committee to prepare a public reception to General McClellan, who is expected to arrive there from Europe in the course of the ensuing week. This is one of the political signs of the times. Another sign in the same direction is the reappearance of McClellan portraits in the shop windows—portraits that seemed to have been simultaneously put away out of sight just after the last Presidential election.

—His Holiness has lost none of his confidence, nor even his humor. The other day he visited the wounded soldiers at the military hospital of San Spirito, and, after consoling them with paternal solicitude, he said, laughing, "Truly, it seems as if the archangel Michael has let slip the devil, whom he had under his foot. If some pious soul does not recapture him, he will be too strong for us. Let us hope, then, my children, that such a good friend will soon appear." St. Michael is the special patron of the temporal power, and it is remarkable that the Garibaldian invasion commenced on his festival (September 29,) when the first bands crossed the frontier.

—It is claimed for a certain ring, lately bequesthed to his daughter by a knight who died at Teignmouth, that it was once the property of the Queen of Sheba, who gave it to Solomon. It was taken from Jerusalem by Titus, brought to Rome and was given by Clement VIII. to Wolsey. From him it passed to the monks of Leicester Abbey, and thence into private hands on the dissolution of the monasteries. It is added that the fortunate owner of this ancient relic is a ward in chancery.

Free Railroad Passes

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

Abuses connected with the administration of public corporations are sometimes corrected by bringing them into public notice, when private remonstrances would be of no avail—hence I ask the privilege of your columns to call attention to a matter in which many of your readers are interested.

The extent to which the granting of free passes over our railroads is practiced, shows it to be a monstrous evil. It is a wrong to the stockholders, a wrong to the community against whose interests it serves to bribe influential persons not more directly accessible to money considerations—and is injurious to the moral sensibilities of those who receive such favors. The traveler on some of our railroads who honestly buys his ticket, will notice on every side gentlemen who at the demand of the conductor, produce their free cards, and others whose chronic habit of free traveling is so well known to the officer that the formality of even the card is dispensed with. Sometimes ten, twenty or even fifty per cent. of the car load do not pay. If the officers of a bank or an insurance company were to conduct business in this manner, the stockholders would at once find their dividends reduced, or else their deficiencies would have to be made up by increasing the charges to their paying customers. Why should the well understood requirements of common sense and common honesty be ignored any more by the managers of a railway corporation than by the managers of a bank?

It has become so much a matter of course for railroads to distribute the funds of their stockholders, or their creditors, in this loose way, that gentlemen of the highest character, engaged in their management, overlook the wrong of the thing. Not only this, but men who would scorn to solicit the agents of the "Pittsburgh Cutlery Company" for a free pocket-knife, or to beg a free dinner at the Union Depot Hotel, or to sponge upon the bank at which they do business for even a two cent check stamp, seem to think it no dishonor to solicit the privilege of spunging on the owners of a railway to any extent. STOCKHOLDER.

Curiosities of the Opium Trade.

Two or three years ago, when Victoria, Vancouver Island, was a free port, enormous quantities of opium were taken out of bond in San Francisco and sent to Victoria; and, strange to relate, at the very time the consumption of the drug among the 6,000 or 8,000 Chinese in the British colonies was so large, the consumption in San Francisco and vicinity, with a population ten times greater, fell off in an extraordinary manner. A seizure was made, and very little opium went north after that exposure. It transpired that the opium generally came back by the very steamer, though not in the same packages in which it went. The San Francisco smugglers, however, are ingenious, and, being checked in the Vancouver Island business, first, by the increased vigilance of the revenue officers, and afterwards driven out of it by a high Colonial tariff, they have sought another convenient port where there is no duty on the drug. One of the city papers gives a hint of the way in which it is done, saying that during the past eight months large amounts of opium have been taken from bond and shipped to the Sandwich Islands; in fact, that more of this drug has left San Francisco for the Islands than their inhabitants could consume in twenty years, even though every fifth person was a consumer. Until this year, the Sandwich Islands have never been known to San Francisco merchants as a market for opium; and it is not improbable that many of the statements respecting the enormous consumption of the drug by the Islanders may be explained by the hints given above.

Daniel Drew's Great Donation.

Last year was the centenary year of Methodism. It was proposed to raise a memorial offering. Mr. Drew was approached to see what he would give, if anything. Without a moment's hesitation he said he would give $250,000 to found a seminary. He wanted it located in Carmel, Putnam county, where he was born. He waived that wish when the good of the church required it. He bought the famous "Gibbon estate" in Madison. He gave the owner $150,000 to get out and leave it all furnished just as it was. And this gorgeous building, furnished fit for a prince, with its carpets, gilding, hangings and scarlet furniture makes the most gorgeous theological seminary in the world. The property consists of two hundred and twenty-five acres, inclosed with a cemented stone fence, iron gates, and porter's lodge. Without any alteration the mansion contains chapel, lecture room, library, reading-room, rooms for professors and recitation rooms sufficient for one hundred students. Over $100,000 have been spent as repairs, and $300,000 will be given as an endowment. A fire-proof building for library and museum is to go up, and the cost of this and other things which Mr. Drew will meet, will aggregate the sum of from $700,000 to $1,000,000.

Gen. Grant's Position.

The Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal says: The attempt of conservative or radical cliques to take possession of Gen. Grant as a Presidential candidate does not succeed. He does not respond to any of their movements. Even the Forney and Thayer speculation in this line has failed. Gen. Grant won't reply to them, and the statement that he was assenting to the nomination is false. He neither assented nor dissented, but will not allow himself to become the tool of any clique. He tells his friends that he doesn't seek the nomination from anybody, and therefore is not alarmed lest his chances may be injured by this or that paper or politician. The strongest statement he has been known to make in this connection was this, that under no circumstances would he run as the candidate of the copperheads. He is equally frank in conceding that he is not a disciple of the Stevens and Ashley school. This is about all he has said on the subject.

IN London money has been offered at the low rate of 1 per cent. per annum, and the news by the last steamer quotes good three months' bills at 1⅜@1½ per cent., being a fraction higher, and yet at these rates business there was rarely, if ever, more prostrate, and heavy failures are of frequent occurrence. Indeed, in business circles, the prevailing alarm had reached a panic. The failures in England are about as numerous as they are in the United States. There the panicky feeling attendant on the depression is attributed to the apprehension of a war growing out of the present, and yet unhealed difficulties existing in Italy. Those who have money are afraid to enter on new enterprises, and prefer lending it, if well secured, at the very low rate of 1 per cent. It is distrust of the future which makes a small amount of capital go a good ways. Money, when it cannot be profitably employed, is a drug in the market. Nobody wants it, and consequently its use is sold cheaply.

PETROLEUM PROSPECTS.

The Effect of Suspension of Navigation—Preparing for Shipments by Allegheny Valley Road—Prices.

The Oil City Petroleum of Saturday says: "For the first time since the oil discovery, the producer and shipper has been deprived of the services of the principal transportation outlet—the Allegheny river. The effect of this long suspension of navigation, and the non-completion of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, has been, to say the least, depressing. The accumulation of oil at this point, and at others in the oil region, furnished buyers with a weapon that they have used effectually to bear down prices. Yet, with all the chances in favor of buyers, prices have ruled steady. With the present month will probably end the heavy foreign shipments. Yet the falling off in these will depend greatly on the prices. With lower rates the shipments to foreign ports would not, in our opinion, be materially diminished, and might possibly be increased for the months of December and January. We are confident in the belief that foreign consumption has increased to a greater extent than many are disposed to believe. Certain it is, that well informed dealers who have made careful calculations as to the amount that will be required for home consumption are agreeably surprised at the result. The facts of numerous large iron tanks being built and contracted for, and the multiplication of shipping facilities, even to the laying of half a score of iron pipes across the Allegheny River, preparatory to shipping on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, is significant at least. We adhere confidently to the opinion heretofore expressed by us, that the surplus on hand "and to arrive," will not be seriously felt by the holders thereof at the close of 1867.

"We have every assurance to look for fair rates to rule during the present month, a full average of the preceding one's at least. The best evidence of this is the buoyancy which the market now exhibits upon the slightest decline in prices. There is enough oil, we think, for all demands that will be made upon it, but we have no fears that Petroleum will ever reach as low figures as in years past. Producers at the commencement of the season were really impoverished. The steady prices of this season have not only repaired their previous losses, but have given them a surplus to develop new fields. They will commence the coming year with better prospects of success than ever heretofore. The wild wave of speculation that swept over us has taught a valuable lesson, and common sense resumes its sway. All are settling down regularly in the harness, and the business of oil mining has become as legitimate as any other. So long as chances exist of striking large flowing wells, so long will prices fluctuate. These will be greatly lessened in the succeeding years, by the increased facilities afforded for cheap and rapid transportation, and improved methods of mining will increase the certainty of obtaining the rich treasure which our hills and valleys hold in practically exhaustless supply."

OHIO NEWS.

Highway robberies are prevalent about Cincinnati. A Mr. Brown was met by a highwayman on the Colerain pike and robbed of $100 on Friday night.

The Clyde Times says that vicinity is infested with horse thieves. More than a dozen valuable horses have been stolen within a few miles of Clyde within the last year.

The Ironton Register says: "The vote at the last election in this county was 4,267. This multiplied by seven, which usually indicates the ratio of populytion to the voters, would make the population of Lawrence county 29,869. A census of Ironton was taken last September on private account, and the population ascertained to be 5,728. The vote last month was 828. This, multiplied by seven, makes 5,796."

A negro girl named America Saunders is under arrest in Dayton, charged with burning to death her new born babe.

The Barnesville Enterprise says: One night last week a malicious assault was made on the Friend's Meeting House, one mile east of this place. Nearly all the windows were broken in, and a large portion of the foundation of the building was removed. It is not known who committed this contemptible trick, nor do we believe that any parties are suspected.

The Belmont Chronicle says: "A few weeks ago Oscar Bewley, a little son of Mr. Jesse Bewley, was riding his father's horse along one of our streets (St. Clairsville). Another boy, playfully, perhaps, struck the horse. The horse reared, threw the little fellow off and trampled on him. For weeks he laid on a bed of suffering. On last Saturday morning his little hands were folded over his breast, and on the following day his little white face was laid under the sod."

RAILWAY MATTERS.

A meeting of the prominent citizens of Zanesville was held on Saturday evening, to consider what steps should be taken to secure the construction of a railway between that city and Millersburg. A movement is on foot to build a road from Lancaster to Newark, there to connect with the Millersburg road, which, if successful, would isolate Zanesville from the Northern part of the State. After remarks from a number of gentlemen present, Messrs. A. Merrick, E. S. Garner and D. H. Willard were appointed to investigate the matter and report to an adjourned meeting.

The Medina, O., Republican has the following regarding the prospects of the proposed branch railroad between the above places: We learn that parties representing several lines of railroad have visited Medina recently, prospecting a route through Berea to Medina and connecting either with the Atlantic and Great Western or Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road. They represent the route as feasible, and are anxious to co-operate with the people of the county in projecting the work. We hope some plan of action may be devised to further an enterprise, and an organization be formed immediately as a nucleus of operations. We have no doubt that the coal and freight which would be carried over the road would furnish business sufficient to make it pay, to say nothing of the passenger travel. Other roads have been started with less prospect of being remunerative. A line of road from Cleveland to Wooster is much needed, and we believe that if a company is formed with this view, it will not be many months before the two places are united by rail.

Sir John Franklin's Remains.

By the arrival of the steamer Nimrod, Capt. Chapel, at St. John's, N. F., from the Arctic fishing grounds, we have some information of the progress Captain Hall is making in his search for the remains of the late Sir John Franklin. It appears that, having been disappointed in obtaining a team of dogs, Captain Hall had started on a sledging tour, in the course of which he met a party of hostile Esquimaux, from whom he learned that at about the time of the loss of Sir John Franklin's vessel, some white men carried a dead body on shore, and built a brick vault, which they carefully cemented, and in which they deposited the corpse, afterward covering the vault with heavy stone flags. This body Mr. Hall believes to be the remains of Sir John, and his intention is to visit the locality and satisfy himself upon the point, if possible. Since, however, this region is inhabited by hostile natives, Mr. Hall has thought it necessary to take with him a small force of white men. To secure this he offered $500 in gold each to any five men from the whaling fleet who would accompany him. Of course, he secured his men, and all hands will start this fall on their journey, so that it is not improbable that next summer we may receive definite information as to the resting place of Sir John Franklin. Capt. Hall has secured many valuable articles formerly owned by Sir John's party.

BRAZIL.

Her Products—Coffee and Cotton.

In the products of Brazil there is a very marked increase during the last twenty years. The coffee product has been trebled, until, in 1866, it reached nearly thirty-one millions of dollars. Cotton raising also shows well, and from one and a half millions of dollars in 1846 the product of 1866 shows nearly twenty-three millions. This branch of industry received a great impetus during our civil war. From the figures it is evident that Brazil, as well as India, did not fail to profit by our dissensions. These figures prove also that there is some chance for the South American countries to compete with us in the cotton growing business. Not only is this the case in Brazil, but Southern Bolivia, the northern half of the Argentine Republic, the provinces of Corrientes and Entre Rios, and Paraguay, all in La Plata valley, possess cotton lands which are scarcely surpassed by our own. This cotton product of Brazil should teach us that we can never hope to hold such a monopoly of its culture as we held in 1860. Cotton in the United States can no longer claim aristocratic privileges or boast that it is king. It is a curious feature, however, that though the cotton product has been increased so much in twenty years, there has been but little effort made to foster home manufactures. While they produce twenty-three million dollars' worth of cotton, they import fifteen million dollars' worth of cotton goods. This is mostly from England. It shows that Brazil is paying a tribute to English commerce and English manufactures, of which there is no necessity; for within the Brazilian territory there are manufacturing elements sufficient to supply the wants of the empire.

THE CLIMAX REACHED.

The introduction of DR. MISHLER'S CELEBRATED HERB BITTERS has settled the question of superiority in this kind of medicine. This is, of course, the natural result, which cannot now be changed. The remarkable cures effected solely by the use of

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS,

Where other so-called "Bitters" have failed, and the universal indorsement it has received from the Medical Faculty, stamp it as the most wonderful in the world. This is the plain fact to which thousands of people are prepared to attest, and to which thousands more have already certified over their signatures.

The speedy curative effects of

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS,

Makes this medicine invaluable to every household. It is the family remedy of the age. Hundreds in this immediate vicinity have experienced its beneficial effects. In all cases of Dyspepsia, acidity of the stomach, general weakness or debility, mental depression, &c., proceeding from indigestion, costiveness, or biliousness.

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS,

Are a positive cure. For Cholera, Scrofula, Liver Complaint, and many other ills to which the doom of our nature. These Bitters will overpower and destroy the disease, cleanse the blood, the stomach and the bowels from all unhealthy secretions, and thoroughly relieve the impaired functions of the system and produce health. As a preventative of disease its value cannot be overestimated. Buy a bottle at once of any respectable Druggist, and secure your health, comfort, and add, perhaps, years to your life.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

BOYS IN BLUE, or the Heroes of the Rank and ..., comprising incidents and reminiscences from ..., battle-field and hospital, with narratives of ... experience, suffering and triumphs of the soldiers ... the Republic. By Mrs. M. H. Hoge, associate ... of the Northwestern Branch of the United ... Sanitary Commission, Chicago. Published ... B. Treat & Co., New York. 1867.

...e may almost claim this as the work of a ...sburgh lady, since the author was long a ...dent of this city, the wife of one of our old ...most respectable business men, who some ...s since removed to Chicago. But apart ...n this, we may say that it is a book replete ...h interest, doing justice, in the tenderest ...kindest manner, to the common soldiers ...our army, and exhibiting what is often ...rlooked in ordinary histories and sketches ...the war—their patience, bravery and patri...m in personal sufferings. The volume em...ies many incidents of the most thrilling ...racter, in hospital life, Mrs. Hoge having ...the best opportunities for becoming per...ally cognizant of the views, feelings and ...tory of the sick and wounded. The author ...s a justly deserved compliment to our la...nted friend, Miss Rachel McFadden, whose ...ors for the soldier in the department of the ...itary and Christian Commissions will be ...embered by many a veteran to his dying ...

The book is handsomely issued by the pub...ers. The illustrations add much to its at...tiveness. But it is the reading that claims, ...will secure for it, a favorable reception ...h the public.

...ACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC FRUIT CULTURE. By ...arles R. Baker, of the Dorchester Nurseries. ...ustrated. 525 pp. large 12 mo. Boston: Lee & ...eppard, 1866.

This is evidently the work of a master and ...etitioner of his interesting profession, giving ...ailed information on all departments of it. ...e author describes the kinds of soil adapted ...different fruits, the season and mode of ...nting, trimming, training, grafting, the ...per cultivation of the ground, and, in fact, ...that the practical fruit grower needs to know ...order to success.

This book is for sale by Henry Miner, Fifth ...eet.

...NEYARD CULTURE, IMPROVED AND CHEAP...NED, by A. Du Breuil, Paris, Professor of Vin...iture and Arboriculture in the Royal School ...Arts and Trades, Paris. Translated by E. & ... Parker, of Longworth's Wine House, with ...otes and adaptation to American culture, by John ... Warder, author of "American Pomology." ...p. 335, 12mo.: Cincinnati, Robert Clarke & Co., ...ublishers, 1867.

We have given the rather long title page of ...s volume for the purpose of showing the ...horities which concur in its production. ...d this should be a sufficient guaranty of its ...h value in the department of fruit culture ...which it treats. Coming from the land of ...vine, and translated by gentlemen per...tly familiar with the conversion of the fruit ...o wine, it is perfected by the notes and edi...ial remarks of Dr. Warder, well known for ...intelligence and practical skill in fruit cul...e. We cannot but believe the circulation of ...h works will be greatly beneficial to the ...t interests of the country.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

BY JOHN W. GEARY, GOVERNOR.

From the creation of the world, in all ages and climes, it has been customary to set apart certain days for special religious observances. This has not always been influenced by the light of Christian knowledge, nor by any proper conception of the character of that Great Being "who ruleth the earth in righteousness," and "who daily loadeth with his benefits;" but by an innate sense of the existence of an over-ruling Power, by which the world and all it contains are governed and controlled. Aided by the dictates of cultivated reason, and the teachings of Divine revelation, we, however, are taught to recognize in that Supreme Ruler a Heavenly Father, to whom we are indebted for existence and all the blessings we enjoy, and to whom we owe constant and fervent thanksgiving and praise. It is he who "visiteth the earth and watereth it;" who "setteth the furrows and blesseth the springings thereof;" who "crowneth the year with his goodness, and whose paths drop fatness;" who "clotheth the pastures with flocks, and covereth the valleys with corn;" who "maketh the out-goings of the morning and of the evening to rejoice;" who "is our refuge and strength;" who "maketh wars to cease," and "saveth us from our enemies;" whose "throne is forever and ever," and who "blesseth the nations whose God is the Lord."

On all sides we have increased assurances of the "loving-kindness" of an All-wise Parent of Good, who has conducted our nation through a long and terrible war, and permitted our people to repose once more in safety, "without any to molest them or to make them afraid." The monstrous sentiment of disunion is no longer tolerated. The Flag, the Union, and the Constitution are esteemed as the safe-guards of the rights and liberties of the people, and are revered and defended as the ark of their political safety.

A kind Providence has not grown weary of supplying our continuous wants. A bounteous harvest has rewarded the labors of the husbandman. Flocks and herds are scattered in countless numbers over our valleys and hills. Commerce is uninterrupted, and vessels laden with the products of nature and of art, speed unmolested, over the trackless deeps. Neither pestilence, famine, political or social evils, financial embarrassments or commercial distress have been permitted to stay the progress and happiness of the people of this great Commonwealth; but peace, health, education, morality, religion, social improvement and refinement, with their attendant blessings, have filled the cup of comfort and enjoyment to overflowing.

Recognizing our responsibility to Him who controls the destinies of nations as well as of individuals, and "from whom cometh down every good and perfect gift," and to whom we are deeply indebted for all these and the richer blessings of our common Christianity, let us unitedly give our most devout gratitude and hearty thanksgiving.

I, therefore, do hereby recommend that THURSDAY, the 28th day of November next, be set apart as a day of praise and thanksgiving, that all secular and worldly business be suspended, and the people assemble in their various places of worship to acknowledge their gratitude, and offer up prayers for a continuance of Divine favor.

GIVEN under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this thirty-first day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-second. JNO. W. GEARY.

By the Governor:
F. JORDAN, Secretary of State. td

CITY MATTERS.

ALLEGHENY COUNCILS.—A regular meeting of the Allegheny City Councils will be held this evening in their respective chambers.

DEGREE CONFERRED.—The degree of LL. D. was conferred recently on Thomas J. Keenan, Esq., of this city, by the Bedford University, of Shelbyville, Tennessee.

WILL ACCEPT.—We are gratified to hear that John W. Riddell, Esq., will accept the nomination for the Mayoralty if the Convention see proper to name him for that position. This disproves the street rumor industriously circulated that he will decline or has declined.

MEETING OF MINERS.—A meeting of coal miners in the Shenango valley was held at Middlesex, Mercer county, on Monday, which was addressed by Mr. Alexander McDonald, President of the Miners' International Association of Great Britain, who is on a visit to this country.

AN ERROR.—The local notice in yesterday's paper relative to the sale of Hay Walker's elegant residence, by A. Leggate, auctioneer, located the property in New Brighton, instead of on the New Brighton road, a short distance from Allegheny city. This is a valuable property, and should command a lively competition.

SCIENTIFIC LECTURE.—Prof. Langley, of the Western University, will deliver the first scientific lecture of the course, before the class to be formed at the Young Men's Christian Association, this evening. Those who wish to avail themselves of the interesting and instructive lectures should attend the meeting this evening.

TAKEN TO JEFFERSON COUNTY.—W. D. Graves who was arrested about ten days ago near Grand Rapids, Michigan charged with the murder of Mrs. Margaret McDonald, in Jefferson county, Pa., last February, and who was brought to this city on Monday and committed to our county jail, was removed yesterday to Jefferson county, for trial, by Sheriff Carrier and Deputy Sheriff Corbett.

DIRECTORS ELECTED.—The annual election for thirteen Directors of the Eureka Insurance Company took place at the office of the Company, in Bagaley's Building Water street, on Tuesday, and resulted in the election of the following gentlemen: J. H. Shoenberger, W. K. Nimick, W. J. Anderson, R. J. Anderson, James I. Bennett, M. W. Beltzhoover, R. D. Cochran, J. A. Caughey, W. W. Martin, Byron H. Painter, A. D. Smith, Henry Hays, George Singer, Jr.

MAY AND DECEMBER.—An old man named John Canary, seventy-five years of age, and a young girl named Miss Minnie Findley, eighteen years of age, called at the office of Alderman McMaster, of the Third ward, yesterday, and desired the magistrate to marry them. The Alderman performed the ceremony, and when the bridegroom went to pay the magistrate for his services it was found that he had but forty cents in his pocket. The Alderman declined to receive anything for his services, and the husband and wife left the office rejoicing.

CRAZY MAN ARRESTED.—A man came to the Catholic Orphan Asylum on Troy Hill, on Tuesday afternoon, and by his acts soon convinced the managers of the Asylum that he was deranged. He then left and said he was going to Birmingham. He returned, however, in the evening, and commenced acting in such a violent manner that the managers of the Asylum were compelled to call in the assistance of some of the neighbors who took him into custody and conveyed him to the Allegheny lock-up. His mind is deranged, and it is not known who he is or where he hails from. He is still in the lock-up, and Mr. McGonigle, City Poor Director, is making arrangements to have him placed where he will be properly taken care of.

Opening of the Lecture Season.

The Lecture Committee of the Young Men's Mercantile Library Association will inaugurate the lecture season next week, at the Academy of Music, the distinguished elocutionist and patriotic citizen, James E. Murdoch, having the honor of leading off. Mr. Murdoch will give two of his elegant readings, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, at one of which Tennyson's "Enoch Arden" will form part of the programme. The Committee have limited the number of season tickets to be disposed of, and but few remain in the hands of the Librarian, at the rooms. A brilliant course of lectures is promised, and that the Committee will fulfil their promise we do not doubt, judging from their successful efforts in seasons past.

An Appeal to a Generous Public.

The undersigned committee, appointed at the meeting held at the Board of Trade Rooms on the 11th inst., to confer with the managers of the public places of amusement, announce with great satisfaction that the generous and timely offer made by Mr. M. W. Canning, of the Opera House, will be productive of much good. Monday next has been set apart, and the proceeds of that evening will be donated for the suffering poor by the late deplorable calamity.

We take pleasure in stating that the charming actress, Miss Julia Dean, and the entire Opera House company have most generously tendered their services on that occasion. We are confident that our public spirited citizens will duly appreciate this mark of benevolence on the part of Manager Canning and those performing at his establishment.

The committee is also pleased to state that they have procured Masonic Hall, which has been kindly tendered by the Trustees of the Masonic Fund Society, where the Crescent Minstrel Troupe will perform on next Saturday night (16th inst.) for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the late disaster.

We need not remind our fellow citizens of the necessity of contributing their mite to assuage the distress circled round the unfortunate who are left destitute. The committee appeal to the generous in heart to crowd with a numerous presence our places of innocent amusement, on the evenings above specified.

Seats can now be secured for the entertainment on Monday evening by application at the Opera House.

A Confidence Game.

A German hailing from McKeesport came to the Allegheny Mayor's office yesterday and stated that he had been victimized to the amount of twenty dollars, by two sharpers. His story runs thus: He was coming from Ohio yesterday on the train which arrives in Allegheny shortly after ten o'clock A. M., and on the train met a well dressed man, who had made his acquaintance shortly after he got on board. The German and his new made friend were conversing quite cheerfully, when a man in the car came up to the latter and offered to wager twenty-five dollars with that he (the German's friend) could not open a patent safe-box which he held in his hand. Before putting up any money, the German's new made friend took the box in his hand and it opened without any trouble whatever. He then agreed to accept the wager, but said he had only six dollars about his person, but that if his German friend would loan him twenty dollars he would open the box and divide the money he would win with him. This the German agreed to without saying a word, and handed his friend the twenty dollars, after adding five dollars of his own money, handed it to the man with the box. The German's friend then took the box in his hand and attempted to open it, but could not. He could not understand what was the reason he failed to open it then, after having opened it so easily just a few moments before. The man with the box walked away with the twenty-five dollars in his pocket, while the friend of the German tried to console the latter on his loss. The man with the box was not seen afterwards, and the German's friend got off the train at Rochester, saying that urgent business called him there. Nothing more was seen of either, and the German is now convinced that he was the victim of two sharpers who had, by a preconcerted plan, arranged to cape some unsuspecting person out of his money.

Secret Societies and the U. P. Church—The Charges Against Rev. R. B. Robertson.

At a recent meeting of the Presbytery of Butler of the United Presbyterian Church, held at Prospect, the following report of a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. J. B. Whitten, J. A. Clark and W. Bovard, who were appointed to examine into certain charges preferred against Rev. R. B. Robertson formerly of Allegheny City, and now pastor of the First U. P. Church, of Freeport, was presented and adopted:

Your committee, appointed to investigate certain rumors affecting the ministerial standing of Rev. R. B. Robertson, would report, that they met at Freeport on the 10th of September, and examined a number of witnesses, who had been previously summoned, on the items of the charge prepared, and report the result of their investigation as follows:

On the item of charge, "That he is a member of a secret order," not proven.

On the item, "Promulgating doctrines inconsistent with the standards of the U. P. Church," we would state that two persons, Rev. M'Elree and Dr. M'Clelland, testified that he did express in their presence opinions that were in opposition to the position of the church on secret societies. But as the testimony of most of the witnesses was to the effect that he never gave any expression of opinion whatever on the aforesaid point; so your committee were led to conclude that on this subject he rather assumed the position of neutrality. On the item, "That he received into the communion of the church a man who is a member of the secret association, known as the Order of Free Masons," from the acknowledgement of the person admitted into the church, there is no doubt of his guilt on this point. But as the person admitted has not been attending the meetings of the lodge since he has been received into the communion of the church, so, therefore, we do not advise the prosecution of this matter to a trial, but would recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1. That we do hereby express our disapproval of the neutral position that Rev. R. B. Robertson has publicly assumed on the subject of secret societies; and also of his unfaithfulness in administering the law of the church in reference to secret societies, in the admission of a member into the communion of the church; and also that he be and is hereby admonished to pursue in the future that course that will preserve the order, purity and peace of the church.

2. That the Session of the First Congregation of Freeport be and are hereby instructed to require from members, known to be in connection with secret associations, their entire withdrawal from such associations.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Messrs. Joseph Woodwell & Company, Extensive Hardware Merchants, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

There are few business firms in the country which have enjoyed greater success or gained a more enviable distinction in their respective departments of trade, than Messrs. Joseph Woodwell & Company, hardware merchants, of Pittsburgh, Pa. About one-quarter of a century ago, when the most of our leading mercantile men were laying the foundation for their present extensive transactions, the senior member of this firm, Mr. Joseph Woodwell, commenced business on his own account in the hardware line, and established himself at the corner of Wood and Second streets, where he has continued ever since. At first he occupied a building of humble pretensions, and which was then sufficiently adequate for all his operations, but as he conducted his business upon strictly liberal principles, he found his trade rapidly expanding, until it was necessary to have a more commodious warehouse, and he accordingly enlarged the house he occupied, and as circumstances have demanded, he has from time to time increased its dimensions, until now it is one of the most extensive and commanding in the "Iron City." Located on the corner of Wood and Second streets, and strongly contrasted with the old fashioned character of the surrounding buildings, it never fails to attract attention, and it is considered by our citizens as forming a distinctive architectural feature in that section of the city. Recently it has been enlarged by an addition on Second street extending back sixty feet, so that the building, as it now stands, forms a complete L. The front elevation on Wood street is twenty feet wide, and the side elevation on Second street is ninety feet in length, and the building has just passed from the hands of the painter so that it possesses a freshness which adds materially to its general handsome appearance. Mr. Woodwell has associated with himself, his son, Mr. William K. Woodwell; his son-in-law, Mr. John H. Steuart, and Mr. Thomas Birney—gentlemen of great proficiency in business matters, and of large experience in the hardware trade. Last May, the senior Mr. Woodwell sailed for Europe, where he continues at the present time, and we are informed that he intends to remain abroad until the spring of '68. During his visit he has added new and important facilities for meeting the demands of his customers, who can now be supplied with any article of foreign hardware with the utmost promptness and at an unusually moderate cost. Direct importations are constantly received by this old established house and thus it is enabled to keep pace with the best known houses of a kindred character in the eastern cities. It is no longer necessary to undergo the fatigue and submit to the delays and incur the trials and expense of a trip to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, etc., for the reason that Messrs. Joseph Woodwell & Co., are prepared to offer the best foreign and American hardware on the most advantageous terms that can be had in any other city in the Union, and as our readers will observe, before they have concluded reading our article, this firm always have on hand one of the most extensive stock of hardware goods in this country. A tour through their large warehouse is a tedious undertaking, but, nevertheless, one is more than repaid for his trouble by the interesting opportunities afforded for seeing into what innumerable shapes, and to what practical purposes iron has been converted. Some one has written that there is iron in everything we use. This is not only true, but more thoroughly true than one would naturally suppose. "Old Tubal Cain was a man of might," but we doubt whether he ever dreamed of the application of this metal to so many and various important uses; and we think that he would be considerably bewildered if he were to arise from his long sleep and pay a visit to our friend Woodwell's. It would be simply folly for us to attempt to enumerate everything that is contained in this spacious warehouse. There is not an article of hardware, from the smallest tack to the heaviest anvil, but what may be seen in large assortment "at Woodwell's." But in order that our readers may be able to form something of an idea of the stock on hand, we will indicate as briefly as possible, what we saw during our visit a day or two ago.

The principal entrance is on Wood street and leads directly into the sales room, which is a spacious apartment ninety feet deep and lined on both sides with hardware stock. Tier after tier of shelving is literally burdened with the weight of it, and the new packages with their various bright colored labels form a pretty contrast to the rougher heavy stock contained in barrels and boxes, that are piled up in different parts of the store. An examination reveals the fact that we have here every description of hardware used by builders, locksmiths, cabinet makers, upholsterers, undertakers, chair makers, machinists, moulders, railroad companies, etc., and a full line of tools used by millwrights, ship carpenters, coal miners, blacksmiths, machinists, carpenters, coopers, turners, etc., also, tool chests and cases of every pattern and size already complete, as well as empty chests, which can be readily supplied from the immense stock in the store. Here the builder can supply himself with locks of every kind, night latches, knobs, hinges, butts, shutter bars, door stops and springs, wrought and cast iron and brass bolts, window springs, sash, cord and irons, transom plates, nails, screws and brads, axle pulleys, etc.; here the locksmith can find cabinet, padlock and door keys and blanks, lock spring wire, files of all kinds, hack saws, twist drills, strikers, screws, knobs, etc.; here the cabinet maker can select mahogany and walnut veneers, mouldings and knobs, gimp, hair cloth, springs, buttons twines, carved handles and escutcheons, hinges and locks, screws, finishing nails, tacks, hammers, planes, casters, butts, fastenings, etc.; here the upholsterer can procure twines, needles, buttons, canvass, burlaps, stretchers, tack claws, curtain fixtures, chair, sofa and mattress springs, plush, etc.; here the undertaker can provide himself with coffin handles, screws, plates, studs, lining nails, lace, etc.; here the chair and cabinet maker can purchase hand screws, planes and hammers, spoke shaves, chisels, gouges, bits, files, rasps, saws, clamps, etc.; here the machinist can choose from a heavy stock of rachet drills, chipping hammers, cast steel sledges, screw plates, wrenches, drills, squares, rules, pulleys, callipers, etc., and here also, Railway companies can supply their employees with picks of all kinds, bars of every description, shovels and spades, adzes, mauls, spikes, axes, switch locks, couplings, guides, steam guages and balances, screws, locks, bits, hammers, and pick, maul and other handles, etc. Besides these articles the cooper can find here knives of every pattern for heading, hollowing, backing, etc., shaves, axes, adzes, compasses, drivers, levelers, croze, stock howell, etc., and the carpenter can choose his planes, gauges, levelers, squares, chisels, and hand, panel, rip, cross-cut, compass, tennon and web saws, etc. also, bits, nail sets, screw drivers, morticing and boring machines, oil stones, hatchets, etc. The blacksmith can get his bellows, vices, wrought anvils (Peter Wright & Sons') stocks and dies, hammers and tongs, buttresses, punches, pincers, etc. The millwright, chisels, augers, saws and boring machines, and the coal-miner, picks, wedges, shovels, lamps, sledges, hammers, etc., and thus we might continue to enumerate ad infinitum. But we have alluded to only a portion of the stock. In one part of the store we find a splendid variety of sleigh bells, and, apropos of the winter season, skates for both sexes and all ages, including the newest and most popular patterns; in another part we see a complete assortment of iron, copper, tinned and galvanized nails; horse nails; steel, brass and copper wires; we notice, also, all kinds of house-furnishing hardware, such as knives and forks, carving knives, tea and table spoons, skimmers and ladles, potato smashers, beef tenderers, sauce pans, preserving kettles, coffee roasters, tea trays, fire irons, coal vases, hods and scuttles, dish covers, flat irons, tea and dinner bells, etc. Here, too, are gong door bells, hat racks, curtain pins, nut crackers, cheese safes, kitchen grindstones, slates, and slate and lead pencils, chalk and crayons, fluting and pinking irons, curling tongs, fish hooks and lines, weather cocks, the "Novelty" clothes wringer, double cog; Brown Brothers patent sash holder, and a thousand other articles. In cutlery we found J. Rogers & Sons ivory handle table knives, Russell & Co.'s ditto; cocoa, buffalo horn and every style of common knives and forks. Also, Rogers's, Stainforth's, Wostenholm's and others pocket cutlery, and bankers, barbers, pruning, sheep, toe, paper, grape, picking and hedge shears, and embroidery, pocket, trimming and household scissors. In farming implements there are scythes, rakes, hoes, spades, trowels, reels, pickers, parers, chains, curry combs and cards, hay and straw knives, cow and sheep bells, etc. There is a large assortment of foreign and American bar steel; W. & S. Butchers edge tools; Chesterman's metalic tape line; brushes of every kind; Harris's patent paint mill for which this firm is the sole agent; the world renowned vices and anvils from Peter Wright & Sons manufactory in England, and which are pronounced the best in the world; leather and gum belting—a full line—from best manufactories; plain and fancy dog chains and collars; combined tobacco cutters and nut crackers; boys' and gents' tool chests; steel letters and figures for stamping; gun caps, shelf brackets, drug mills, etc. From all this minutia our readers can now form some conception of the vast variety of hardware articles, tools and implements sold by this well known firm. We were especially interested in a recent importation of English fire irons and iron japanned trays, personally selected by the senior member of the firm on the other side of the Atlantic, and we were surprised at their great perfection and beauty, as well as at the moderate price affixed to them. Mr. Woodwell has also sent over to this country several valuable paintings on glass. They were made by an artist in Birmingham, England, and are moonlight scenes, which for general beauty, effect, and skill in the construction of them, are unexcelled. The price is fixed at from fifty to seventy-five dollars each. The upper floors and the spacious cellar contain invoice upon invoice of foreign and American manufactured hardware and a very considerable proportion of the former has been personally selected by the senior Mr. Woodwell, in Europe.

The office of the firm is located in the new addition to the main building. It is commodious, well lighted and ventilated, and contains all the elements of comfort with all the facilities for transacting the business of the firm. Directly over the office is the sample room which contains specimens of every article sold by the firm. Messrs. Joseph Woodwell & Company, employ a large force of energetic and experienced persons and the utmost care is exercised in all the operations of the house to afford the utmost satisfaction to its patrons. Every order is filled as soon as received and the goods shipped immediately. There are no delays—no inactivity—everything is done systematically and orderly, and a busy scene from morning to night marks the spot where this great hardware house stands. The employees are polite, obliging and pains-taking, and customers are always certain of meeting with prompt attentions. The firm itself needs no word from us concerning its status in the business world. From the beginning its present enviable reputation has been maintained unimpaired. It is known far and wide as one of the substantial, representative houses in the hardware line in this country, and we regard it as a credit to our city and wish its enterprising members a long continuance of the success that has thus far rewarded their persistent industry, and business integrity and sagacity.

Fairbanks, Morse & Company's Standard Scales.

All over the civilized world Fairbanks's celebrated Standard Scales of all kinds are well known and appreciated by business men in every department of trade and commerce. The Branch House of Messrs. Fairbanks, Morse & Co., for Pittsburgh, is located at the corner of Wood and Second streets, in Messrs. Joseph Woodwell & Company's extensive hardware house noticed above. Here may be found at all times every description of scales made by this world renowned firm, including railway, hay, coal, grain, stock, platform and counter scales, and a full line of druggists and prescription scales; fine gold and jewelers' scales, etc. Also, iron beams, standard weights and measures, market scales, etc. We were very much interested in examining the stock of scales at this branch house on the occasion of our visit a day or two ago, but specially so with the patent charging or stock house scale, which is a new modification in combination with a compound beam which we believe to be the most complete charging scale in use for iron furnaces, and other purposes where various substances are to be weighed and compounded. It is a secret weigher with no possibility of the weights being tampered with or mistakes occurring through carelessness, and will recommend itself to every one interested upon examination. Fairbanks standard scales are the most highly valued extant, and have carried off the highest honors at all the principal fairs in America and Europe, including the Paris Exposition. The will weigh accurately the most minute object that can turn a balance of the greatest delicacy, or give the correct tonnage of a heavily loaded boat or railway train, or in other words they will weigh anything from a hair to a boatload. Thousands of business men in this vicinity know by experience the inestimable value of these scales and their testimony in favor of them, is only what hundreds of thousands in all parts of Christendom have repeatedly pronounced in regard to them. They need no additional praise from our pen, and we know that every person who once uses any one of these scales will never part with it. They are all constructed with the utmost mathematical accuracy and are far more durable than the generality of scales. We hope that our readers who contemplate buying any kind of a scale, weight, measure, or scale beams, or who may have occasion in the future to purchase in this line will not fail to pay a visit to Messrs. Fairbanks, Morse and Co.'s Branch House in Pittsburgh, and examine their scales, etc., before purchasing elsewhere.

Without a Rival.

"I have long been an enthusiast, if not an expert, among the Sewing Machines. Besides, my wife is practically familiar and experienced with the leading machines. I have made critical examinations and severe tests of twelve different machines claiming to be 'first-class,' and I am entirely satisfied that the Wilcox & Gibbs is so far above all others in practical worth that IT IS WITHOUT A RIVAL. The complication of delicate machinery, so common in other machines, seems to be wholly eliminated in this; and I have no doubt it will live to see other 'first-class' machines forgotten. Mrs. REID says it is certainly the best beyond comparison. The rotating hook of the Wilcox & Gibbs machine is the beauty and perfection of simplicity itself; and I have nothing more to expect or ask."—Letter of Rev. H. A. Reid, Beaver Dam, Wis.

Why Shake? Why Burn?

Put these two questions to a man passing through the alternate paroxysms of Fever and Ague, and he will probably reply, "because I cannot help myself.

But he is mistaken. He can help himself. He need not continue to endure the marrow-searching cold and parching heat of intermittent fever unless he chooses.

If there is an established fact in the history of medication, it is this: that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS invariably breaks up the fits of this exhausting disease.

Quinine often fails, and whether it fails or not, it is always a dangerous medicine. It stultifies the brain. The Bitters have no such effect. Quinine shatters the nervous system. The BITTERS, on the other hand, are a glorious nervine; in fact, a specific for nervous ailments.

Medicines, as a general rule, are "bad to take." Not so, this famous vegetable specific. It is mild and agreeable, not pungent and nauseating. The liver is always greatly disordered in intermittent and remittent fevers, and this excellent tonic and alterative has antibilious properties of the highest order. The stimulant employed to diffuse its medicinal virtues through the organs of the body is perfectly pure, and this cannot be said of the spirituous basis of any other tonic. The best advice that can be given to persons residing in malarious regions, or in crowded cities, is to take it as a PREVENTIVE of diseases incident to both. Whether used as a protective antidote, or a remedy, it will be found wonderfully efficacious.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, November 13, 1867.

We have no new feature in the money market to report. The offerings for discount were light, and little was done either at the banks or by outside operators. It is gratifying to notice the general stability manifested under the present state of things, the absence of anything like a panic, and the tendency to take a hopeful view of things.

Governments are firm and the long series show another fractional advance. Gold is higher and firmer. The following report shows the quotations current to-day in New York as received by Messrs. McVay & Co. and James T. Brady & Co.:

U. S. 6s 1881	112¾

—The stock market has been dull, with some exceptions in the miscellaneous list. Pacific Mail was offered very freely, upon an understanding that there is to be an important competition on the Pacific route and large amounts were sold at 135. The quotations at noon today were as follows:

Michigan Southern	79⅞
Cleveland & Pittsburgh	82
Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago	97
Erie	71¾
Chicago & Northwestern	47⅞

The cliques endeavor to keep up an attractive diversion by promoting ups and downs in the stocks in which they are interested; but the stocks they have under manipulation being, with one exception, the most worthless on the list, and being held up at prices out of proportion to the market value of good, dividend paying shares, their operations attract little interest, and the street waits until such a fruitless game is ended by members of the cliques growing tired of the management, and undertaking the care of their own stock.

—The following is a statement of the approximate earnings and expenses of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, during the month of October ult., and of the earnings and expenses for first ten months fiscal year, as compared with the same period of the year 1866:

—The New York Times says: The Comptroller of the Currency is preparing a statement which will refute the statements that the Government pays the National Banks twenty millions per annum for the privilege of issuing their own notes and others of a like character. The truth is, there is no interest in the country which pays so great a proportion of the taxation on capital invested as the National Bank interest.

—At Philadelphia the Ledger says: The money market opens quiet this week. There is a good supply of money on "call" at seven per cent., but the pressure for money is not from such borrowers. Those who want money most are manufacturers, and all classes of small traders under them, who are trying to carry their stocks of goods until there is a favorable change in the general market. The best of this class of borrowers are carried along by the banks, and by their aid may out-live the pressure, while those who are forced to the street, and the high rates that rule there, are gradually getting worse off. Prime commercial paper can be negotiated at 8 to 10 per cent, but such as falls below A No. 1, ranges from 1 to 1½ per cent. a month. Indeed it is almost impossible to place inferior paper at any price. The banks discount as liberally as they deem safe and prudent, while the most, if not all of the bankers, have ceased to discount at all for the present. But for the fact that business is very inactive, this discredit of paper would result in serious inconvenience.

—The offerings of paper have been steadily large throughout the week, and all branches of business have been represented in them. The banks have, for the most part, made it a point to try and control their business so as to be prepared to meet the calls of the pork-packers, whose claims are generally recognized as preeminent at this season of the year, but their efforts have been only partially successful; and if the packing business was well under way the pinch would be intense indeed. The disbursements for purchase of hogs are generally looked for by merchants with much interest, for the reason that they are so largely relied on to relieve the drag in country collections, so that the precedence given the pork trade in its season is acquiesced in cheerfully. Rates of interest are wholly conventional—gauged only to the necessities of the borrowers. It is reported that maturing paper is being paid with greater promptness than could be reasonably expected. —Cincinnati Commercial.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, THURSDAY, November 14, 1867.

BUSINESS.—The market yesterday exhibited a certain amount of firmness for certain deliveries. There was considerable inquiry and a good deal of negotiation going on on, behind the scenes, of which such parties as the reporters were kept in the dark as much as possible. The prospect of a rise in the Allegheny was not very flattering. The weather was changeable with cold spells, but no rains. Oil City dispatches quote the market without change, with sales of crude at $2 75@3 ¶ barrel, according to location. The eastern markets were reported as follows: New York—prime light straw to white 27@27½c; standard white 28@28½c; crude 18c. Philadelphia—pure light straw to white 27@27½c; standard white 28@28½c; crude 17½@18c ¶ gallon.

In our own market we can note the following operations:

CRUDE—The market appeared firmer; the stock of crude oil on hand being held by a limited number of firms. Spot oil was held firmly at 10½c, but no sales were reported. Sales of 1,000 bbls bulk, March delivery, S. O., at 9c ¶ gal.

REFINED OIL—the operations since our last reach 10,500 bbls, the sales extending to the end of July, 1868. The operations were made in the following order 2,000 bbls standard white, Philadelphia, January and February delivery, at 28c ¶ gal; sales of 3,500 bbls to be delivered 500 bbls monthly, commencing with January and terminating with July at 27½c; 3,000 bbls standard white, Philadelphia, commencing with January and terminating with June, 500 bbls per month, at 27½c; 1,000 and 500 bbls do, November delivery, Philadelphia, at 29c; sales 500 bbls do, December Philadelphia, at 29c ¶ gal.

Chieftain	Hendrickson	Brownsville.
Elizabeth	Houghton	Elizabeth.
Elisha Bennett	Cox	Brownsville.
Leni Leoti	Hamilton	Parkersburg.

THE RIVER AND MATTERS ALONG THE WHARF.—Business along the landing was dull, the water being too low for navigable purposes. The Leni Leoti came in with a fair trip; she left during the afternoon with all the freight she could manage on the water. The prospect for water is not very flattering; it looks as if the river would be closed with ice before we have a rise. There is, however, no telling what a day may bring forth.

THE steamers Glendale and Belle Vernon have arrived at Cincinnati.

THE steamer Ezra Porter is loading at Cairo for New Orleans.

THE Tyrone and Talisman are the only boats in port at Nashville.

ONE-QUARTER of the Only Chance has been sold at St. Louis for $4,000.

THE General Quitman took to New Orleans her last trip, 2,535 bales of cotton and 2,292 bags of cotton seed.

THE little and ancient sternwheel towboat Resolute struck a log at the foot of Alton Island, Sunday night, and sunk, her stern resting in about 12 feet of water, with the bow high and dry. The Resolute was owned by Capt. W. A. Adams, and was of but small value, and will probably prove a total loss.

POMEROY, November 11, 7 P. M.—River is falling slowly. A light drizzling rain fell this morning. The new side-wheel steamer J. N. McCullough and the Importer passed down for Cincinnati. The Emma Graham, Harry Dean and Liberty No. 4, with a tow of model barges, passed up. The Golden Era will leave for Cincinnati to-night. Cloudy and very cool.

THE Mobile Times says:

The "Submarine Number Thirteen," one of the bell-boat or wrecking boats, came over yesterday from the neighborhood of Spanish Fort, where, for some months, she has been "worrying" at one of the sunken ironclads, and after ferrying from one wharf to another the most part of the day, left in the evening for (we understand) the Crescent city.

THE Nashville Gazette says: The Tennessee river survey, under the direction of General Weitzel, is progressing satisfactorily. Notwithstanding some unfortunate accidents have occurred, the survey is progressing with energy, and it is expected that the party will arrive at the Muscle shoals by the 3d of November. On the 1st of November they had reached a point thirty miles below Bridgeport.

THE side-wheel towboat Bon Accord, bound from Cairo to St. Louis, with a tow of lumber, struck a rock on the chain below Thebes, and sunk to her boiler deck. The Bon Accord was owned by Capt. Peter Conrad, who went down on Sunday with the steamer Friendship and a force of men to the assistance of the sunken boat. The Bon Accord, like the Resolute, was very old, having been launched in 1845, although partially rebuilt several times since.

A BIG TRIP.—The Reserve passed up the river yesterday towing two barges, with the biggest trip that has went up stream this season. She has been receiving and discharging all the way up which caused her detention. She had 4,000 barrels of apples, 1,000 of which were left here. At Port Byron 221 tons of iron, glass and nails were received for points above Dubuque. At Clinton 50 tons of merchandise was put off. Her passenger accommodations were more than full, and the Captain had surrendered his rooms to two ladies.—Dubuque Herald, 8th.

ST. LOUIS.—RECENT TRANSFERS AT ST. LOUIS.—Ferryboat Pike, plying at Carondelet—Charles G. Plass sells his one-half to Geo. T. Plass for $250. Ben Johnson—Wm. R. Massie sells his one-fourth for $1,000 to Thomas F. Gibbins. Only Chance—John M. Calhoun sells his one-fourth to Clement M. Seaman, trustee, for $3,000. Ben. McCulloch—Wm. Snyder sells one-third to Nicholas Decker for $2,000. Ida Dixie—Jerry Coats sells for $3,000 entire to Col. I. G. B. Cameron, President Mt. Carbon Coal and Railroad Company.

THE ST. LOUIS DEMOCRAT ON THE SITUATION.—Water stationary. Our river business is about to be curtailed by winter. The Northern line packet company will receive no freight to-day for points above Dubuque. The Farragut reports a rise in the Illinois of one foot at Henry, four inches below, and stationary again on Saturday. Weather yesterday very pleasant. Business does not promise to become much brisker if any this year, at the port of St. Louis. Several stern wheel steamers are publicly announced for sale here. It is thought that some boats that have left points on the Ohio will not reach their destination soon.

TUESDAY'S St. Louis Republican says:

The weather yesterday was decidedly cool and reminded one very forcibly of the near approach of winter. Capt. Hill, of the Lucy Bertram, in yesterday from Keokuk reports a snow storm of two hours' duration, below Hannibal. Business opened with but a moderate show of activity.

The following are the rates of freight to New Orleans adopted by the Captains' Association: Alcohol, ale beer, coal oil and whisky, per bbl, $4; kraut and vinegar, $2 per bbl; flour, apples and onions, $1 per bbl; beans, bran, bagging, bacon, hay, lead, lard, shorts, shipstuff, wheat rye and barley, 50c per 100 lbs; corn 60c per sack; oats 65c per sack; candles, onions, potatoes and soap, 60c per 100 lbs; eggs and unrecorded hemp 75c per 100 lbs; dressed hemp 65c per 100 lbs; dry goods and tobacco $1 per 100 lbs; linseed and lard oil $1 25 per bbl; tobacco in hhds and machinery as per contract; horses $12; mules $10; cattle $11@12; two year old $8; yearlings $6; calves $4; sheep $1 50; hogs $1 25; chickens $1 50 per dozen; turkeys and geese $2 50 per dozen.

The river is again on the decline, although but slowly. The last boats up from Cairo report 5½ feet scant in the channel, with Hat Island the worst place; hence to Keokuk the river continues to fall steadily, with but 3½ feet at the worst places. The Missouri is almost essentially "played out," and beyond reporting. A slight rise is reported in the Illinois, but almost too late to be of any material service to the boating interest.

THE Leavenworth Commercial says:

The Mountaineer came up the river from St. Louis at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, and left in the evening for up-river ports. She reports very low water in the river below, not exceeding three feet in the channel. Her cargo consists principally of quartermaster's stores, which she is conveying to Fort David Russell, a new post in Dakota.

The Mary McDonald is due from above and looked for hourly.

The Nutz new steamer, seems to be doing a heavy wood business, and our levee is getting covered with wood and coal for winter consumption.

LOUISVILLE, November 11.—The Delaware and Glendale arrived from Pittsburgh, and the Success from Cairo. Business rather lively.

A slight snow and rain fell this morning. It is now cold. The Lenora passing up.

Captains Montgomery and McGill have been elected officers of the Steamboat Captains' Association. The rates of freight are generally unchanged.

The Bermuda goes to the Tennessee river on Saturday; the Tempest to the White river on Wednesday, and the Early Bird goes to New Orleans Wednesday.

The steamer Leonora has not been sold to the Cincinnati and Tennessee River Packet Company.

The Tarascon goes into the Louisville and Henderson trade. The Cora S. is laid up. The Rose Hite goes on the docks. The Mary Irwin goes to the Tennessee river Thursday. The Sam Hale is aground at Three Mile Island, above Evansville. The St. Charles and Indiana will go to New Orleans as soon as the water permits.
